Wilson to Say in U. S.

HINT TRANSFER

Dieckhoff May Not Return Until Situation
Is Clarified

Washington—(AP)—Acting Secretary Welles of the state department said today Hugh Wilson, who arrived today from his post as ambassador to Berlin, would be assigned to the state department for an indefinite period.

Welles said Wilson would take up duty as a consultant as soon as he returns from a conference during the weekend with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

Welles said Wilson's duties would be to advise state department officials on German affairs.

Although no further information was given, it was indicated this action might be preliminary to Wilson's permanent transfer from his Berlin post.

Indications at the state department are that the decision whether he shall return to Germany has not yet been made and probably will not be made for several weeks.

Sign of Disapproval

It is probable that the German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff, who sailed this week for Berlin, will not return until Wilson's status is clarified.

Wilson's recall already has been interpreted in some quarters as a sign of stern presidential disapproval of the latest outbreak of Jewish persecutions in Germany.

Wilson arrived this morning from Berlin, via New York, and went immediately into conference with the acting secretary of state.

Meanwhile informed officials indicated today that Myron Taylor, as American vice chairman of the international committee on political refugees, would seek an immediate "showdown" on how many German refugees each government is prepared to receive.

(The former chairman of the United States Steel corporation had passage on the Normandie today for London where the committee will meet.)

Heretofore, no government has said precisely how many refugees it could or would take.

In high official quarters, it was indicated Taylor would tell the committee that the situation demands such a statement from each of the participating governments without delay.

See Funds Available

With these facts in hand the United States is confident, it was said, that the committee can secure from various relief organizations the large sums of money necessary to transport the German Jews to places where they can begin life anew.

Taylor, in a broadcast address last night, said the United States' program was based on existing immigration laws, and that there was no question of "flooding" this or any other country with aliens.

Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, who arrived from Berlin yesterday may have brought information on Germany's attitude. The ambassador was called home for a general report on the anti-Semitic campaign in the reich.

Wilson reached New York in time to have a 14-minute conversation with Secretary Hull before the latter sailed to attend the Pan-American conference in Lima, Peru. Neither discussed their talk afterwards.

British Forces Wipe
Out Band of 15 Arabs

Jerusalem, Palestine—(AP)—Combined British ground and air forces today wiped out an Arab band of 15 in a battle midway between Acre and Safed in lower Galilee.

British troops, pressing their campaign to quell an Arab uprising against British rule in Palestine, also searched villages in the lower Galilee area yesterday and seized large quantities of ammunition.

Vocalizing
One Pet Peeve

Nature did not intend the vocal organs for speech or song but only for holding and chewing food, states Dr. Victor E. Neagus, a noted London laryngologist. Glad to hear it, and if the many alleged radio artists would simply carry out Nature's intention by merely chewing the air instead of saccharinizing it with monotonous moans and droo-ones about doncing-ing-ing and romencing-ing-ing, life would be a lot happier. However, there are lots of fine programs too. Use The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. Here's one that hopped neatly on the bandwagon:

Pontiff Gaining Strength After Suffering Stroke

Official Communique
Says Condition 'More
Or Less Normal'

Vatican City—(AP)—An official communique said today that Pope Pius XI had "returned to a more or less normal condition" after a heart attack which had caused grave concern. The communique said: "The holy father passed a calm night, resting without any disturbance. The improvement which was noted yesterday evening continued, happily, so that this morning his holiness has returned to a more or less normal condition."

Vatican sources said the 81-year-old pontiff, although still weak, was able to get up from his bed and receive Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

He first received Cardinal Pacelli in his bedroom, sitting in an armchair which made breathing easier. He then had himself carried to the library on a lower floor of the palace, where he continued his conversation with the secretary of state.

Doctor Urges Rest

The communique said the pope's chief physician, Dr. Amintore Milani, "taking into consideration the state of weakness resulting from yesterday's illness, has recommended that the pontiff should rest."

Nazis Open Huge Pawnshop to Let Jews Raise Cash for Fine

Berlin—(AP)—German nazis today opened a glorified pawn-brokerage business to help hard-pressed Jews raise funds to pay the $400,000,000 fine imposed for the assassination of Ernst vom Rath.

The Berlin Chamber of Industry and Commerce started a bureau on behalf of the economics ministry to take over jewels, art works and other valuable objects from Jews throughout Germany.

The fine's first installment due Dec. 15 is to be cash, principally. Many Jews have been assessed 20 per cent of their wealth as part of the fine and will have to liquidate much of their personal property to raise the money.

It was explained this central bureau was established to make it easier to convert their possessions into cash, after appraisal by experts.

Measures to ostracize Jews continued to pile up.

Appleton business men today voted the College avenue decorations "best ever" and expressed satisfaction over the surge of shoppers that responded to the official Christmas opening yesterday.

Merchants and customers alike agreed that the evergreen-clad arches spanning the avenue, with huge stars at their apexes, were the most distinctive and impressive decorations ever seen in the city.

And without exception, the city's retailers are optimistic over the Christmas business, their optimism based on lively trading during yesterday's opening.

Following are remarks made by men interviewed by the Post-Crescent this morning:

J. R. Whitman, J. C. Penney company: "The decorations are the most effective of any that have been erected since I've been here. The Christmas opening was very encouraging and I'm sure the change of weather is going to be helpful."

Mayor John Goodland, Jr.: "The men in charge and the Appleton Chamber of Commerce deserve a lot of credit for doing a splendid job on College avenue this year."

Slayers of Guard Escape Execution

Guilty of Murder but Jury
Provides 'Without Capital Punishment'

San Francisco—(AP)—First-degree murder verdicts "without capital punishment" were returned by a federal jury today against James C. Lucas, 26, Texas robber, and Rufus Franklin, 24, Alabama murderer, for slaying an Alcatraz guard in a futile attempt to escape May 23.

The jury's recommendation meant the two convicts, already serving life terms at the government prison, will escape death in the lethal chamber.

Judge Harold Louderback immediately passed life sentences on the two.

Defense Attorney Harold Faulkner asked for a motion for a new trial, which was denied.

Continue Search for
Two Escaped Convicts

Jackson, Mich.—(AP)—Prison guards and county officers continued a search today for two inmates of the state prison of southern Michigan who escaped yesterday by sliding down a ventilator and climbing over the prison wall with the aid of an improvised ladder.

Indigent Jews, for example, are not permitted under a new regulation issued by the interior ministry to seek aid from public welfare bureaus but must turn to Jewish welfare agencies.

All Jewish student loans were cancelled and repayment ordered within two weeks.

Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering, acting in his capacity as the reich's master of the hunt, ordered the cancellation of all hunting licenses held by Jews on the basis of a law which takes away such rights from persons "who endanger the public safety."

New regulations yesterday provided that Jews be dropped from the roster of registered handicraftsmen and that stocks of Jewish retail shops, which are to be liquidated before Jan. 1, be handed over to various governmental trade departments or public receivers in bankruptcy.

Begin Efforts To End Strike At Stockyards

Conciliators Try to Prevent Clashes Between Rival Unions

CONFER IN CHICAGO

Seek Compromise Between CIO, Management Before Monday

Chicago—(AP)—Representatives of the CIO conferred for two hours today with officers of the Union Stockyard and Transit company in an effort to end the strike which has suspended operations in the Chicago stockyards for five days.

At the conclusion of the conference, Don Harris, regional chairman of the packing house workers organizing committee, said negotiations had been adjourned until 1:30 p.m. Monday.

He declined to say whether an agreement had been reached with the company to forestall operation of the huge yards by an A. F. of L. local of livestock handlers, which has offered to send in a crew at 6 a. m. Monday.

Chicago—(AP)—Federal conciliators worked against time today seeking settlement of the stockyard strike which would prevent possible clashes between rival unions.

The conciliators attained their first objective in drawing the opposing forces into an initial conference this morning.

A compromise between the striking CIO handlers and the Union Stockyards management before Monday was the next goal. On that day rival A. F. of L. handlers planned to return to work in defiance of the strikers.

The strike began last Monday and has paralyzed trading in the world's largest meat animal market. Approximately 600 livestock handlers were affected.

The decision to cross CIO picket lines was announced by Thomas Devero, business agent of the A. F. of L. Stock Handlers' local, after a conference with O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stockyards company.

Want To Return

Henkle said the A. F. of L. handlers "want to come back to work Monday and we told them they may do so."

Primary obstacles to peace were said to be the CIO demands for a written contract. The striking handlers also sought vacations with pay, a basic wage, and overtime pay.

CIO "killing floor" workers at the Armour and Company plant voted to take a "holiday" today because, President Ben Brown of the union said, the company had used stockyards property in receiving livestock shipments.

The CIO union said the "holiday" affected 1,100 of the 4,500 members at the Armour plant. Previously Brown announced the union might call a strike among all its packing house workers if attempts were made to use the stockyards. The union claims a total membership of about 20,000.

An Armour spokesman said later that 1,000 men in the slaughtering department had stayed away from work.

Charge Policies Menace Utilities

Willkie Thinks They Will Soon Be in 'as Bad
Shape as Railroads'

Washington—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, predicted today the utilities soon would be in "as bad shape as the railroads" if present administration power policies are continued.

The policies of TVA and PWA, he said, have destroyed the market for utility financing, preventing needed expansion.

Willkie, whose company operates numerous utilities in the TVA area, predicted, too, that the utilities would spend $100,000,000 at most next year on the expansion program proposed as a part of the national defense program.

Administration spokesmen, who conferred with utility leaders on the program several weeks ago, reported afterwards that a $2,000,000,000 expenditure was in prospect for the next two years.

In testimony yesterday before the congressional committee investigating TVA, Willkie suggested that a permanent non-partisan board be set up to fix a value on properties or private utilities, if the government's present power program is to be continued or extended.

Francis Biddle, committee counsel, said Richard N. Elliott, acting comptroller general, would be the next witness at hearings starting Monday.

Fond du Lac Board for Rerouting of Highway

Fond du Lac—(AP)—The Fond du Lac county board approved today, 41 to 12, the state highway commission's proposal to reroute Highway 41 and 45 around Fond du Lac as a part of a super-highway from Milwaukee to Green Bay.

The county, however, will not take any part in the rerouting for some time because of $1,500,000 in outstanding highway bonds which it is retiring.

The action will enable Winnebago county, which has given approval to the plan, to proceed with rerouting of the highways around Oshkosh.

Claim Strikes Are Ended in North France

Factories and Mines Evacuated Without Disorder, Officials Say

READY TO RETURN

Paris Orders 'Immediate Expulsion' of Foreign Agitators

Paris—(AP)—Government authorities, declaring strikes in northern France "virtually terminated," today disclosed 12,000 striking miners had been mobilized and that all occupied factories and mines had been evacuated without disorder.

Officials said military and police action had reduced to less than 10,000 the number of strikers and that all had been forced to quit their plants.

Apparently accepting the fact that strikes are not permitted by the government, labor representatives issued orders for miners of the great Anzin coal basin to begin work Monday as usual and for metal workers to go back to their jobs Monday provided no penalties are exacted by employers.

Fight Agitators

Special instructions from Paris to Valenciennes authorities ordered "immediate expulsion" of foreigners who engage either in strikes or in agitation.

This would affect principally about 8,000 Polish coal miners who work in the region. The government order was designed to prevent trouble from foreigners who cannot be mobilized into the army and thus compelled to work.

Labor representatives said work had been started by a small number of employees in several metal plants.

Military authorities declared 506 railway workers on the Anzin line, who did not comply with mobilization instructions yesterday, would be tried by newly set up military courts.

Army leaders were summoned to confer with Premier Daladier on measures to cope with the general strike called for next Wednesday by the General Confederation of Labor. The confederation has 5,000,000 members.

Claim Japanese Drive Along Railway Stopped

Shanghai—(AP)—Chinese reported today they had won two victories along the Hunan-Kiangsi border south of Hankow and had halted completely the Japanese drive down the Canton-Hankow railway toward Changsha.

Japanese warplanes bombed the town of Shumchun, on the border of the British crown colony, adding to the number of wounded Chinese soldiers and civilian refugees seeking to enter the colony.

While real warfare goes on only a short distance from the colony, Hongkong's naval forces are engaged in extensive maneuvers in which the colony is being defended against imaginary invaders.

One Fatally Burned in Sheboygan Falls Blast

Sheboygan Falls—(AP)—Four men were burned, one fatally in an explosion at the Bemis Manufacturing company here late yesterday.

John Goll, 54, died at a Sheboygan hospital four hours after the blast.

Walter Trowbridge, Herman Gueltschow and Arden Wanning, all burned severely on the face and hands, are being treated in Sheboygan hospitals.

The explosion, in a dust collecting system in the boiler room of the plant, came just as workers prepared to close the plant for the day. The cause of the blast has not been determined.

The four men were the only occupants of the room.

Week's Weather

Chicago—(AP)—Weather outlook for the period Nov. 28 to Dec. 2: Great Lakes—Much cloudiness; probably occasional snows; with temperatures mostly normal or below.

Milwaukee—(AP)—District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes today had a formal notice from the wife of Thomas Duncan, Governor Philip F. LaFollette's former secretary now serving a one-to-two year sentence for fourth degree manslaughter, that she intended to request a pardon for her husband.

Steffes said Mrs. Duncan had specified the petition would be presented on or before Dec. 21. The governor, who leaves office Jan. 2, has the power to grant either a full or conditional pardon, or commute Duncan's sentence.

Steffes began his term in the Milwaukee House of Correction June 13 after a dramatic trial in which he was convicted of manslaughter in the hit-and-run automobile death of a retired West Allis business man, Henry Schuette, 63.

Steffes, friend and political associate of Duncan, presented the state's case. Circuit Judge Guillick N. Risjord of Ashland found Duncan guilty of first degree manslaughter but sentenced him on a fourth degree conviction. Steffes took the case to the state supreme court, declaring the sentence should have been passed under the higher charge, but the court refused to intervene.

Steffes may recommend to LaFollette and the pardon board that Duncan be granted clemency or that he serve the required time, or he may make no recommendation at all. Steffes said last night he had no immediate announcement to make.

Steffes said today he would issue a statement Monday regarding the position he would take in the case. At Ashland, Judge Risjord said he would make his recommendations Monday afternoon.

Truck Driver Is Fatally Hurt in Crash With Train

Silas H. Ashley, 56, Menasha, Victim of Accident at Oshkosh

Silas H. Ashley, 56, 357 Nassau street, Menasha, was injured fatally yesterday afternoon when the tractor-trailer he was driving and a southbound Soo line passenger train collided at a crossing at Oshkosh.

The truck was carried about 200 feet. Ashley was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital at 5 o'clock. Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago county coroner, said no inquest will be held.

Ashley was a driver for the Wheeler Transportation company, Menasha. The truck, which was loaded, was demolished. The truck driver had made his last stop at the Hudson company. He started south down a private road and then turned west, according to Oshkosh police. He then stopped before proceeding across the track where the accident occurred, it was reported.

Charles McCoy, Fond du Lac, was the engineer of the passenger train. Ashley's skull was fractured.

Driver 13 Years

Ashley was born in Merremac, Wis., on Oct. 3, 1882. He was a resident of the Twin Cities for the last 16 years and previous to that he lived at Adell and Oconto, Wis. He had been a driver for the Wheeler Transportation company for 13 years. He was a member of truck drivers' local No. 563.

Report Progress in Attempts to Subdue
California Fires

Los Angeles—(AP)—Shifting, capricious winds, which for three days alternately have fanned, then almost halted the spread of southern California's two disastrous forest and brush blazes, appeared today to be aiding fatigued firefighters in the Santa Monica and San Bernardino mountains.

Neither conflagration was under control, but officials who late yesterday feared additional millions of dollars damage was inevitable took encouragement from reports of progress in several areas.

The most dangerous point apparently was in upper Mandeville canyon, in the Santa Monica mountains west of Los Angeles. Ralph J. Scott, city fire chief, ordered concentration of 800 men along a six-mile front to keep the blaze from breaking across Mulholland highway and into the fertile San Fernando valley.

Lower in the same canyon are numerous expensive homes, but Scott said none was in immediate danger. Three firemen, burned when a blaze trapped them and a truck in nearby Rustic canyon, returned to the lines after emergency treatment.

Only spot fires remained nearer the seacoast in Topanga and Las Flores canyons, swept during the first day, and county foresters said they were being brought rapidly under control.

The sheriff's office announced, after a survey, that 80 residents in the two canyons and adjacent areas of Las Tunas and Big Rock were destroyed, with a property loss approximating $150,000.

Steffes, friend and political associate of Duncan, presented the state's case. Circuit Judge Guillick N. DROWNING VICTIM

The Rev. A. Garthman will be in charge and burial will be at Little Chute. The body will be at the home from 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon until time of the funeral.

Wauwatosa Man's Body Recovered In Mercer Region

Deer Hunting Season
Closes With 13 Known
Dead, 2 Missing

By the Associated Press

Wisconsin's seven-day deer and bear hunting season closed Friday with 13 hunters known dead and scant hope for two others missing since Monday.

The thirteenth death was confirmed Friday with the finding of the body of Clyde C. Bleiel, 40, of Wauwatosa, shortly after discovery of the body of a companion, Stephen J. Mangold of Kaukauna.

The two were with Kaare Dreyer, 38, of Wauwatosa, and Eddie Polachek, a Park Falls guide, of whom no trace has been reported.

Sheriff Arvie Kyrö of Iron county, led a party which found the bodies of Bleiel and Mangold in the Turtle river flowage, 14 miles from Mercer.

The four had attempted to cross the flowage in a rowboat, which was found overturned. Apparently Mangold and Bleiel clung to trees and debris in the flowage until exhausted.

Seven hunters were shot to death in the first two days of the season. Until Friday, only two additional deaths were reported, one due to a fall and the other an accidental shot.

Friday the total was swelled by reports of the deaths of Ernest Christeck, 20, of near Marquette, and Edward Smola, 26, of Taylor county, both wounded earlier, and discovery of the two drowned men.

Lower in the same canyon are numerous expensive homes, but Scott said none was in immediate danger. Three firemen, burned when a blaze trapped them and a truck in nearby Rustic canyon, returned to the lines after emergency treatment.

Propose to Turn Relief Activity Over to States

Democratic Senators Launch Move for Decentralization

Washington—(AP)—A proposal that administration of relief be turned over to bi-partisan state boards came from a group of Democratic senators today amid reports President Roosevelt may ask changes in present relief machinery.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) said that Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) was drafting a bill to decentralize relief and that several Democratic senators who have been critical of administration policies had agreed to support it.

Meantime, informed persons said numerous changes in WPA and allied programs were being discussed by Harry Hopkins, the relief administrator, and other administration officials.

They added that nothing definite has been decided, but that there was considerable likelihood some changes would be approved and recommended to the new congress by the president.

As explained by Burke, the Bailey measure would establish bi-partisan relief commissions in each state to administer relief funds through bi-partisan boards in each county.

Would "Taper Off" The states would be required to contribute toward relief costs and provision would be made for a gradual "tapering off" of federal expenditures as the states became able to take care of their needy.

There already had been indications relief would be a subject of major controversy in the new congress.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the senate minority leader, said yesterday Republicans would concentrate efforts on turning the administration of relief back to the states and also would demand an investigation of reports of politics in WPA.

Burke said Democrats backing the Bailey measure would welcome Republican support, but added:

"This is a Democratic move, conceived by Democrats and sponsored by Democrats."

Favors Advisory Body Those who disclosed the administration was considering revision of the existing relief setup said the proposals under discussion included:

Creation of an advisory board to aid the administrator in shaping relief policies.

Establishment of a coordinated relief organization on a permanent basis—perhaps within the framework of a regular government department.

Organization of a joint state-federal program with sufficient flexibility to meet varying relief needs from year to year.

Allocation of relief jobs on the basis of ability to work as well as on the basis of need.

Reorganization of the federal-state employment service to increase its efficiency in serving jobs which are not on relief rolls.

Application of the civil service system to the relief program.

Relief costs now make up nearly one-fourth of all federal expenditures. Officials have predicted a downturn in these costs with better business conditions.

However, President Roosevelt said at Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday the recent pick-up in business did not necessarily mean an immediate and proportionate decline in relief rolls.

Mr. Roosevelt said in most industries production has increased more rapidly than employment.

Jersey City in Drive for Funds

File Charges of Failure to File Returns Against 24 Firms

Jersey City, N. J.—(AP)—The city commission has brought charges of failure to file personal tax returns for 1937 and 1938 against 23 Jersey City corporations assessed at approximately $250,000,000.

The charges, filed with the Hudson county board of taxation by City Commissioner Arthur Potter, are based on a 1918 state law under which companies having statutory offices here are liable for personal property taxes.

The concerns sued to date, the city indicated, are the first among 250 to 300 others to be charged with tax violations by Jersey City in a drive to bring additional funds into the city coffers.

The current suits, it was stated by the city, would result in more than $10,000,000 in new taxes. The 1937 tax rate was 44.24 per thousand dollars valuation and the 1938, 47.54 per thousand.

The concerns sued (home addresses were not listed in the papers filed and statutory agents said the addresses were not available) are:

Aluminum Manufacturing Company, 1 Exchange place, 1937 valuation $7,632,568; 1938, $7,427,213. Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Company—1937, $2,832,587, and 1938, $2,272,241.

Rejected Suitor Slays Woman and Turns Gun on Self

Double Shooting Occurs In Midtown Section Of New York

New York—(AP)—An attractive young red-haired woman was shot and killed today on the seventh floor of the Grand Central terminal building in the heart of the midtown section as she fled from a man described by police as a disappointed lover.

The man then shot himself through his right temple. He was dead when police arrived.

The woman was identified as Marion Wheeler, 32, of Yonkers, N. Y., a clerk in the office of L. V. Porter, comptroller of the New York Central railroad. Her slayer was tentatively identified as John McNeal, 52, a widower, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Police Captain Patrick Kenny, who took charge of the investigation, said fellow employees of Miss Wheeler told him McNeal had argued with her in vain to marry him, and lately had become so abusive that she was in fear of his life.

Saw Shooting Scores of persons in the crowded Park avenue office building which adjoins Grand Central terminal heard the shots, but police could find only one man, W. DeSears, employed in Porter's office, who saw the shooting.

McNeal met Miss Wheeler today as she was going to work. Captain Kenny said he learned the two quarrelled bitterly as they rode up to the seventh floor in the elevator and were still arguing as Miss Wheeler started down the corridor to the office.

Suddenly she began to run. Captain Kenny said the man then drew a .32 caliber revolver and fired three times. All of the bullets hit Miss Wheeler in the back, felling her at the entrance to her office.

McNeal then shot himself.

Experimental Program Would Include All Colleges in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Educational affairs and problems took the spotlight today with hints of experiments in the field of higher education by executives of state colleges and universities and a declaration from the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, biggest tax-supported member of the state educational system that it must have more money to "maintain its high standing."

Possibility of developing an educational program to which all Wisconsin colleges and universities may contribute, and of state control of higher education, were discussed here at a conference of presidents and deans of public and private Wisconsin colleges.

Five suggestions were presented to the schoolmen by C. A. Dystra, state university president:

Five Questions Is there an educational program of state-wide implications to which our colleges may contribute? Is Wisconsin a state in which we can experiment with such a program?

Can we restudy the tasks of education so that each of us can do the best possible job in our fields? How can the university be of the most service in such an undertaking?

Shall we then survey ourselves before some other agency believes it necessary to do so?

In some quarters the educators' conference was interpreted as a move in the direction of closer cooperation and coordination of the state's facilities for higher education, which has long been discussed the advocated.

Nineteen colleges and universities, public and private, were represented at the meeting, including Lawrence of Appleton and St. Norbert's of De Pere.

Need More Money The university budget statement, which took the form of a declaration by the faculty, flies in the face of explicit promises and threats of the new state administration to trim all state budgets.

The statement acknowledged this prospect with this warning: "If it is impossible to provide more adequate funds for the support of the university it will be necessary to be content with a university of lesser strength."

The university's financial worries are occasioned principally by drastically increased enrollment and obsolescence of much of its physical plant. Its present budget, almost $4,000,000 a year, is higher than ever before, however.

Income Tax Shows 1937 Earnings are Better Than 1936

Collections Total $45,000 More During 10-Month Period

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The people of Wisconsin and the state's industrial and business firms earned more last year than in 1936, according to the taxes they paid to the state treasury.

The state tax commission revealed today that total income tax collections for the state from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1938, amount to $11,889,915, or an increase of more than $45,000 over the same period last year.

Current collections represent taxes on 1937 incomes, it was pointed out.

Of the total $6,716,440 was represented by corporation taxes, and $5,173,375 by personal income taxes. In the same ten month period of 1937, on 1936 incomes, the tax commission collected $11,841,254, while in 1936, on 1935 incomes, the total was only $8,995,873.

Increase in Valley The trend was also reflected in Fox river valley income tax payments, according to the collections for comparative 10-month periods by the Green Bay district office of the state tax commission.

During the first 10 months of this year the office collected a total of $697,587, compared with only $623,424 the previous year.

This accounts for more than the entire state increase during the period, showing that other Wisconsin districts dropped considerably this year.

The Green Bay district includes Outagamie, Brown, Oconto, Marinette, Waupaca, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Door and Calumet counties.

Normal corporation and individual taxes in the district during the first 10 months of this year amounted to $433,123. The taxpayers of the district also contributed $190,158 in the pension surtax, $11,483 in gift taxes, and proportionate amounts in relief and soldiers' surtaxes, and privilege dividend taxes.

Gypsy Rose Lee Will Bare Everything--for Dies Group

Cleveland—(AP)—An exploratory wing of the Dies congressional committee resumed an investigation of affairs educational today after Gypsy Rose Lee of the "strip-tease" conditionally accepted an invitation to testify about Hollywood.

"I'll bare everything—if the committee will come to Columbus," roguishly remarked Miss Lee at the state capital, where she is appearing at a theatre.

Rep. Harold Mosier (D-Ohio), member of the committee investigating un-American activities, had asked the actress by telephone to come to Cleveland by plane for an interview concerning a movie capital campaign for funds for the Spanish government forces.

"I can't go—I got four shows a day here," Miss Lee commented. "I got a whole company depending on me. And the flying weather's bad."

While describing the incident as "a big joke," the shapely exponent of expose said:

"Maybe we did give parties out there to raise money for poor kids and women in China and Spain. Is that un-American? I thought it was the American creed to help the downtrodden."

Miss Lee recalled that another film actress, tender in age but strong at the box office, was mentioned in a Dies committee hearing.

"It's the first time I ever got billing with Shirley Temple," she exclaimed, "and I think it's marvelous."

Mosier and Rep. Noah Mason (R-Ill.) are conducting an inquiry here as a special Dies sub-committee, into alleged communist activities in Ohio schools.

Credit Pool Is At All-Time High

Federal Reserve Board Reports 3 Billion in Excess Reserves

Washington—(AP)—The national banking system's potential credit pool has reached an all-time high. The federal reserve board reported yesterday that on Nov. 23 member banks had $3,350,000,000 in excess reserves leaving that amount available for lending and investment.

Board experts said this excess could provide the basis for more than $25,000,000,000 worth of credit.

At the same time, the board announced that industrial production increased sharply in October and the first three weeks of November. The board estimated October production at 96 per cent of the 1923-25 average, compared with 90 in September, 76 at the recession low in May, and 102 in October of last year.

Unofficial estimates placed the probable November index at about 100.

Part of the increase in bank deposits has resulted from the administration's discontinuance of formal gold sterilization last April. At that time $1,400,000,000 worth of gold which had been purchased with borrowed money was turned into cash, adding to the store of idle money.

GROTH COMPANY CLEANERS — Appleton, Wisconsin

W. A. T. A., Health Group Join Forces In Yule Seal Sale

Effect Consolidation and Drop Separate Campaigns In Tuberculosis Fight

For the first time since 1932, one Christmas seal sale will be conducted in Appleton for this year the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and the Outagamie Health association have agreed to a joint campaign, according to Mrs. R. J. White, seal sale chairman.

Letters with seals enclosed were mailed to Appleton residents, business and industrial houses Wednesday evening and the 1938 campaign officially was launched on Thanksgiving day. The sale will continue until Christmas.

The two associations, which began conducting separate campaigns about six years ago, have joined forces so that a more effective campaign for good health can be waged in this community. Arrangements have been made for the joint supervision of funds raised through the sale of seals.

Because two organizations sold seals in other years, many persons donated to both so this year the number of seals in each envelope has been doubled in many cases to raise about the same amount of money sought by both last year.

Sponsor Clinics During 1937, the groups sponsored semi-monthly chest clinics at Riverview sanatorium, followed up in the school tuberculosis testing program, conducted infant welfare clinics and spread tuberculosis education among schools, homes, industries and the entire community.

Mrs. White reminded potential seal buyers that this work must go on. She said tuberculosis killed 10 Appleton residents last year and an estimate shows about 100 active cases of the disease in the city presently.

"Tuberculosis has sentenced hundreds of Appleton residents to months and years in bed during the last decade," she said.

Christmas seals cost only a penny each, a dollar a sheet. An envelope was enclosed in each letter for convenience in mailing contributions. Checks should be made payable to A. H. Stoegbauer, seal sale treasurer.

Baby, Which Weighed 20 Ounces at Birth, Dies

Plant City, Fla.—(AP)—Gloria Sue Jones, who weighed only 20 ounces at birth ten days ago, died last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jones at Coronet, near here.

The attending physician and neighbors worked day and night with the tiny tot, keeping hot water bottles tucked around her and feeding her with a medicine dropper.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jones, who arrived last night and talked with the president during and after dinner on what Eccles described as the general policies of the reserve system. He will remain a guest at the Roosevelt Pine mountain cottage during the week-end.

Tomorrow afternoon temporary White House officials looked for the arrival of Hugh R. Wilson, American ambassador to Berlin, for a thorough review of German-American relations following his initial report at the state department.

James H. Cromwell, New York banker-economist, was another caller on the president's list today. He would not state the purpose of his visit when he arrived last night.

Mr. Roosevelt braved a bitter cold afternoon yesterday to drive in an open car for his annual inspection of the new deal's first re-settlement project 25 miles away in Pine mountain valley.

In an informal speech to the 1,100 settlers gathered in front of the four-year old project's white schoolhouse, he noted the wide range of accomplishments of the rural cooperative, praised the courage and progress of its 250 families, and added:

"I hope you realize that what you people are doing is not merely for yourselves, but a lot of others throughout the country are following by the example you are setting."

Extortion Suspect Taken to Milwaukee

Kenneth Bayer, 21, 731 W. Oklahoma street, who, according to police, confessed sending a series of extortion letters to Appleton tavernkeepers, was turned over to federal authorities and taken to Milwaukee yesterday. He will appear before a federal court examiner, according to Chief of Police George T. Prim, Bayer was arrested at the local post office as he was getting some letters from a lock box which was registered under a different name. The police had sent some decoy letters to effect the arrest and Bayer confessed renting the box under the assumed name, according to police. About 20 letters had been sent to tavernkeepers demanding $5 a week and threatening bodily harm.

Challenge Murphy's Authority to Cut Funds for Schools

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Governor Murphy's authority to reduce funds appropriated to the public schools by the state legislature was challenged today in a suit filed in the Ingham county circuit court.

The suit, instituted by graded school district No. 1, of Lowell township, Kent county, charges the governor exceeded his legal powers when he ordered a reduction of several million dollars in the amount appropriated for school aid.

It asked an injunction to forbid Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, from abiding by the governor's orders.

The court was asked for a declaratory judgment defining the authority of the executive office, and for a permanent injunction against Dr. Elliott.

The bill of complaint contended the cuts would total $10,500,000 in the current school year, or about 40 per cent of the amount which would have been available to the schools had Governor Murphy not ordered the reduction.

School children would be deprived of educational facilities required by law were the cuts enforced, the bill contended, adding that "chaos" would result in public school educational programs.

National Parkway Along West Bank of River to be Mapped

Washington—(AP)—National park service officials will discuss with representatives of ten states at Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 5 the establishment of a parkway along the west bank of the Mississippi river from its source to its mouth.

As the result of the conference a bill may be presented to congress in January providing for construction of the parkway.

A tentative bill drafted by the interstate planning committee, sponsor of the project, has been under consideration in the interior department and the national resources committee. It will be returned soon to A. P. Greenfield of St. Louis, Mo., head of the interstate planning committee, with suggestions and recommendations and will receive consideration at the Memphis meeting.

States to be represented at the meeting are Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The project, suggested several months ago by Missouri Park authorities, still is in "very preliminary" stages of planning, national park officials said. No estimate has been made of the cost of the 2,000 miles of parkway stretching from Itasca State park in Minnesota to Chalmette National monument in Louisiana.

National park officials emphasized that the project would be primarily a parkway rather than a roadway. It would be planned with an eye to recreational and conservation aspects as well as the preservation of historic sites.

U.S. May Amplify Monroe Doctrine, Lawrence States

Pan-American Conference To Have World-Wide Significance

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — (AP) — World-wide significance attaches to the forthcoming Pan-American conference which Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has just left Washington, will attend in Lima, Peru. Ordinarily, a Pan-American conference is of concern only to this hemisphere. But there is reason to believe that the dictatorship governments in Europe have their eyes on the gathering and would like to stir up behind the scenes a break in Pan-American solidarity.

It has been the policy of the Washington government for many years now to cultivate a better understanding among Latin-American nations of the policies and purposes of the United States. Under Republican as well as Democratic administrations, a policy of good neighborliness and warm friendship has been pursued. Thus, Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice but for many years secretary of state under a Republican regime, carried forward the good neighbor policy of his predecessors, as did Secretary of State Stimson under the Hoover administration.

It, therefore, anybody abroad seeks to imply that divisions on domestic questions are carried to foreign policies as they affect Latin America, the appointment of former governor Alfred M. Land to be a member of the United States delegation to the Lima conference is in itself a refutation of such a belief.

People's Spokesman
Mr. Hull, to a remarkably significant extent, possesses the backing of millions of Republicans as well as Democrats. He is perhaps the most unpartisan man in the present administration. Hence, he can truly be regarded at Lima as the spokesman of all the people of the United States in their desire to maintain friendship and develop new policies with the countries to the south of us.

As the 21 republics meet at Lima, new and yet in a sense old questions with a new meaning will confront the various delegates. Originally, the Monroe doctrine was enunciated by the United States as a warning to European governments abroad from colonizing the western hemisphere and extending their empires. Brazil, more than 100 years ago, proposed an offensive and defensive alliance for all the Pan-American countries. There have been, moreover, several attempts to make the Monroe doctrine a formula for cooperation among the 21 republics in which all would have proportionate obligations.

Action Misunderstood
The Washington government, for a long time, has declined to consent to the making of the Monroe doctrine a multilateral affair and has reserved the right to consider it a national policy. But this action has been misunderstood in Latin America as implying a desire for special privileges and special rights.

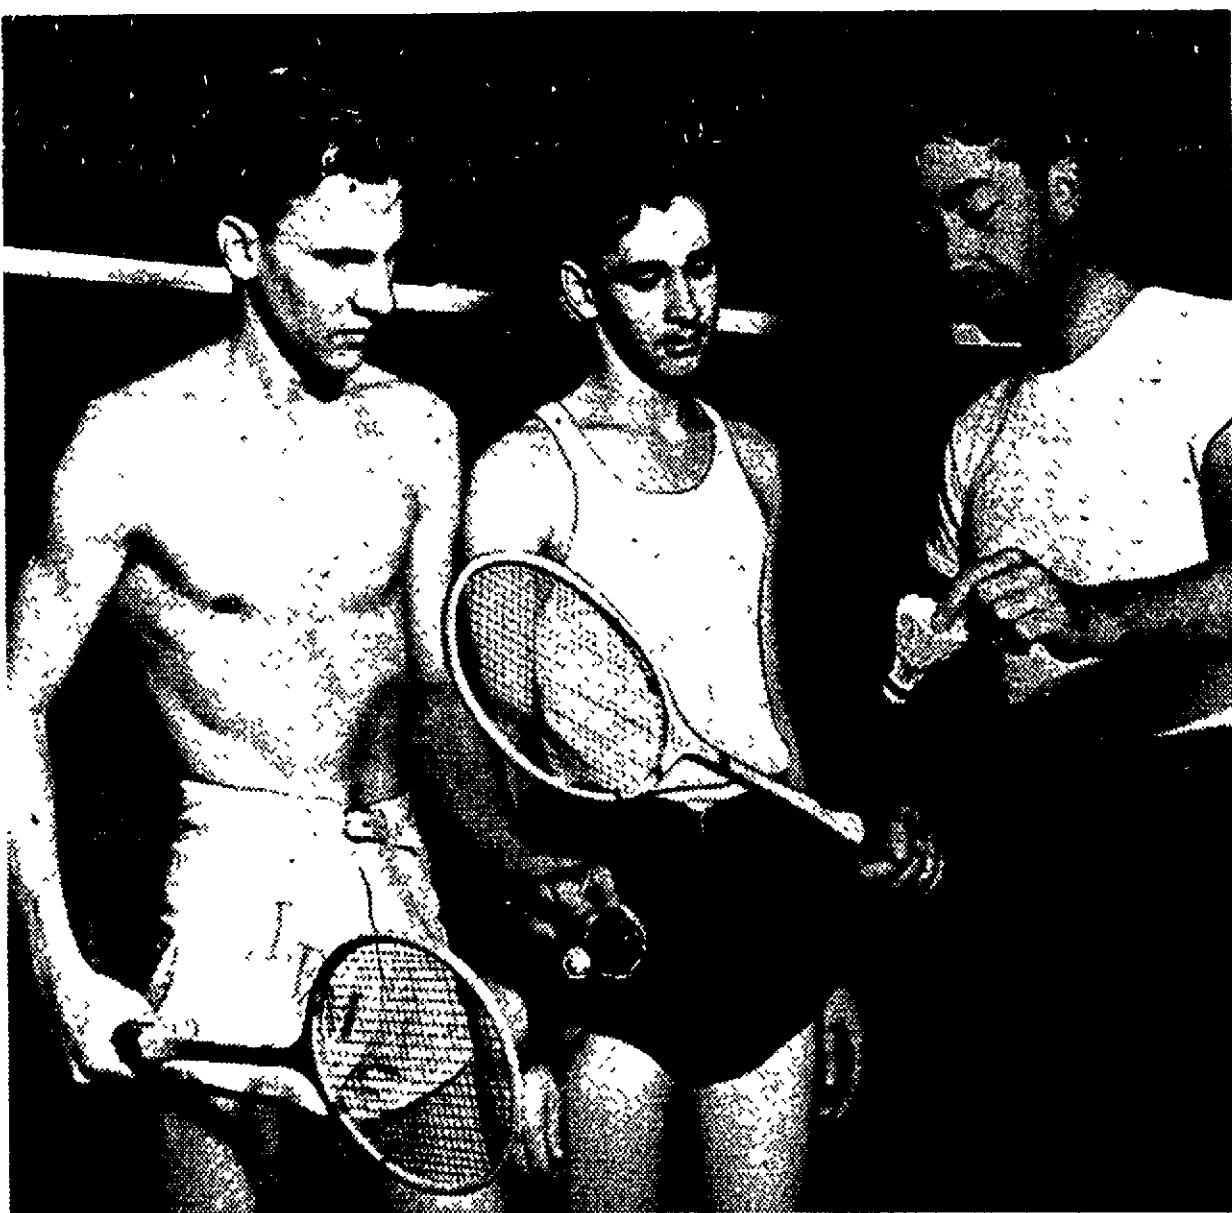

What America has meant merely has been that, irrespective of whether any other country in this hemisphere is ready to protect the Americas against threats of European invasion, the United States would consider that to be a paramount duty.

But now, when European dictatorships feast their eyes on Latin America as the last treasure-house of the world, and opportunities for exploitation seem to be opening up, the question of what common policies of a commercial character shall be pursued by the Pan-American countries becomes something broader than the Monroe doctrine. The world has seen how commercial penetration without extension of actual sovereignty can undermine a government and set up a totalitarian state.

Military Cooperation
The United States government may be ready now to amplify the Monroe doctrine so that the other 20 republics will feel parties to a new declaration of purpose and a new international organization to preserve peace. First and foremost, of course, is the forthcoming armament program. The United States plans to have a military force big enough to protect the oceans and the air against European attack on any country in this hemisphere. This means close military cooperation between Washington and the other governments of this hemisphere. The foundation for such a virtual combination of western hemisphere powers may be laid at Lima, but it will materialize only after the 21 republics have recognized the importance of making a practical and united front against European philosophies of both the communistic and fascist variety. Clearly the Lima conference may bring the assurances which the Munich conference failed to give to the democracies of the world in their efforts to guarantee themselves against the ravages of war.

COACH SHIELDS DEMONSTRATES GAME OF BADMINTON

Handball, Badminton Among New Games at Senior School

Active participation in not merely one sport but several is now the opportunity of every boy and girl attending the new Appleton High school. During class, the noon recess and the "after school" period the badminton, shuffleboard, handball and ping-pong courts are the scenes of one tourney or another. The old high school, poorly ventilated and crowded, never witnessed such organized activity.

During gym classes the boys are now running doubles tournaments in handball, a sport new to the high school, since the old building was not equipped with courts. After school singles contests are being held, and a school champion will be determined.

The six shuffleboards, inlaid in the corridors of the gymnasium, are particularly popular at noon. Frank Spencer and Carl Rehfeldt have the honor of being the school's noon champions of this sport.

Badminton, which came to the United States from England via Canada, is firmly established as an American sport. Both boys and girls at Appleton High may send the feathers flying across the nets on the six courts in the gymnasium. The two ping-pong tables also are in almost constant use, and the click of the white balls bouncing back and forth is a familiar sound on the second floor of the gym.

Right now most of the girls are concentrating on volleyball, since courts have been but recently marked out on the gym floor. The Girls' Athletic association is sponsoring the after school contests. Each noon from three to four hundred students find real recreation participating in these sports or dancing in the cafeteria to music provided by a phonograph. "Doin' the Lambeth walk" is a favorite pastime. Tuesday the home rooms began their rivalry in basketball. All of these various programs are in Chicago after a few days visit with relatives here.

Some Redefinitions Needed For Whole Liberal Movement

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington — Roosevelt has settled down for a few days of comparative quiet at Warm Springs, where he can have the opportunity, denied him in Washington, of indulging in quiet meditation.

The trouble with most presidents, and with most government officials, is that they are so busy wrestling with the day's details of office that they have almost no time to think. And just now, of all times, thought is needed.

Roosevelt's liberal movement is in confusion. It has come up against signs of a partial revolt on the part of the American people. It is clear that there is real protest against some things that have gone on.

Liberalism must take a new grip on itself. First of all it needs to find out what it thinks. The Roosevelt administration has stood for a number of reforms to make our economic system work more fairly to the whole mass of citizens. But in the minds of many voters the Roosevelt administration also stands for political use of relief, for agitation of class warfare and for subjecting employers to unfair discipline in the Wagner labor act by allowing only employers to bring complaints, for instance. The Roosevelt administration also stands, in the minds of many voters, for political machine — Frank Hague, Pendergast, and the high smel: that comes out of the Albany, N. Y., machine.

Those are not what the Roosevelt administration really stands for, but it has allowed itself to be caught in that company and therefore it suffers rebukes from the voters.

Overall, the Roosevelt administration has gained a reputation, because of the extreme attitude of some of its personnel, for having secret designs against the capitalist system of private enterprise. In short, the public mind is confused, and undoubtedly many, in the Roosevelt administration are confused, and are hitting out as free-lances in all directions.

Jackson Talk Packed With Common Sense
Therefore it is a real contribution to the state of mind, both in and out of the government, to have some redefinitions. Some are needed from Roosevelt. Meantime one statement, clear and packed with common sense, has come from Robert Jackson, the solicitor general.

Speaking to the Liberal Voters league of Montgomery county, Maryland, Jackson said that real liberals are branded by extreme left-wingers as conservatives. He accepted the label, on the ground that "The liberal movement in America today is simply an intelligent and realistic conservatism." Real liberalism, he emphasized, stands for a system of honest capitalism, free from abuses, and subject to the qualification that the interests of man and of society come first. "We have tried to preserve private enterprise by destroying the abuses which prey upon it," Jackson said.

Jackson cites, as a good working definition, that of Thomas Mann, who said: "We must define democracy as that form of government and of society which is inspired above every other with the feeling and consciousness of the dignity of man."

Jefferson Was Scorned As Roosevelt Is Now
This has been a timeless struggle, first around political rights, now around economic rights. Jefferson, fighting for political democracy, was scorned by many just as now Roosevelt is. When Andrew Jackson opposed imprisonment for debt, he was denounced as an enemy of property. Robert Jackson describes liberalism as democracy in flood tide and conservatism as democracy in ebb tide.

Liberals, by hard fighting, establish reforms which are then accepted and come to be thought of not as liberalism but as Americanism. And, Jackson says, "reactionaries adopt the names and slogans of deceased liberals in order to discredit living ones." Just as Republicans now make a hero of Thomas Jefferson while his liberal descendants are busy fighting on a new front, this time economic rather than political.

Behind it all is the intent to make democracy function better — which is the best insurance against alien forms of government.

Colder Tonight; East and Middle West Feel Storm

84 Deaths Attributed to Tempest of Wind And Snow

Unsettled skies and cold temperatures tonight, with fair weather tomorrow, were forecast for Wisconsin today as the eastern states and a portion of the midwest mopped up after the nation's worst November storm in years—a tempest of wind and snow that claimed at least 84 lives, according to the Associated Press.

At 12:30 this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 27 degrees. For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 27 and the lowest 21, according to charts at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company plant. Precipitation measured .03 of an inch.

Frigid weather prevailed today generally from the east coast to the Rocky mountains. Snow-packed roads remained a menace to weekend travelers, particularly in rural areas.

Airplanes and trains moved again on schedule. Bus transportation was still slowed somewhat by snow drifts in the east, but main highways in all states were open. Communications networks suffered relatively minor damage.

Traffic accidents on ice-glazed streets and deaths due to over-exertion added to the toll.

25 Deaths in New York

The storm caused 25 deaths in New York, 14 upstate and 11 in the metropolitan area. New England counted 22 dead, New Jersey 12, Pennsylvania seven, the south five, Ohio four, Maryland three, Michigan and Indiana two each and Nebraska and Missouri one each.

In New York city, streets blanketed by the heaviest November snow-fall in 40 years were swept clean by a force of 40,000 laborers.

A fierce gale struck Nova Scotia last night, cutting off from outside communication the western half of the province and importing shipping. Vessels remained in port rather than face heavy seas.

Light snowfall was general in Wisconsin last night and Milwaukee had its first light snow of the season this morning.

Temperatures in the state dropped as low as eight above at Superior-Duluth, while Park Falls had a minimum of 10.

The prediction was "unsettled and colder tonight, becoming generally fair Sunday; not quite so cold Sunday in northwest portion."

Cut Insurance Rates On Public Deposits

Madison—(P)—The state board of deposits today reduced the insurance rates on public deposits from 1 per cent to one-half of 1 per cent.

Executive Secretary Gerald Mayne said the new rate, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1939, will save school districts, cities, villages, counties and other public depositors about $425,000 annually.

He said there would be no insurance required on funds protected by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation which now guarantees deposits up to $5,000. The board met in a brief session this morning.

Public officials of state communities met here last month to study a downward revision of the insurance rates. They suggested a reduction to one-twentieth of 1 per cent.

PLAN POST MORTEM Argyle, Wis.—(P)—A post mortem was planned today on the body of Jacob Scott, 62, found frozen yesterday in a ditch near Argyle. Dr. L. P. Leitze, Green county coroner, said exposure probably caused death. Scott, a bachelor farmer, was last seen Monday night.

It Is Said--

That of all the uncomfortable mistakes made by deer hunters, this one has them all topped. A deer hunter who returned from the north Friday tells this one about his companion:

The hunter fared forth on a brisk morning this week and because it was unusually cold, spread a brown blanket over the hood of his car, which was parked a short distance from the lodge in which he was staying. He trudged through the woods all day and didn't see a deer but as he wearily approached the lodge, he saw something that looked like a deer and let go with both barrels. When the smoke cleared away, he found the blanket and the hood of his car riddled full of holes.

That a youthful deer hunter living in the vicinity of Appleton had an experience during his trip to the north woods this week that he isn't telling about for fear that he will not be permitted to hunt deer next season. The young hunter was sitting on a stump waiting for the drive when a rifle bullet buried itself in the stump. Someone had either carelessly shot his gun or the hunter was mistaken for a deer.

That Charles Anderson, of a lunch room on College avenue, has been getting an unmerciful razzing since he returned from the northwoods Thursday without a deer. Anderson was born and reared in the area in which he hunted.

Sale of Railroad Empire Under Attack on Allegations of Fraud

Indianapolis—(P)—Sale of the Van Sweringen railroad empire to a syndicate composed of New York financiers was attacked today on the grounds of fraud in a $5,000,000 damage suit filed in federal court here against George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., multi-millionaire.

The complaint named as a co-defendant the George and Frances Ball foundation, charitable and benevolent organization formed by the Muncie man shortly after his acquisition of the Van Sweringen brothers' rail and realty interests in 1935.

Plaintiffs are Robert R. Young, Newport, R. I., Allan P. Kirby, Convent, N. J., and the Seaboard company, Ltd., of Nassau, Bahamas islands.

Sale of the stocks and securities in the Alleghany corporation, parent company for the Van Sweringen interests, originally was to Young, Kirby and Frank F. Kolbe of New York for a purported $6,375,000, of which $4,000,000 was in cash and the remainder in a promissory note maturing May 5, 1939.

"Wash Sales" Charged

Kolbe sold to Young and the Seaboard company shortly after the properties were acquired.

The first paragraph of the complaint is a statutory action for damages under the federal securities exchange act of 1934 and charges that Ball, after acquiring ownership and control of the various securities of the Alleghany corporation, engaged in the type of transactions on the New York stock exchange known in financial circles as "wash sales."

Ball's transactions, the complaint alleged, were for the purpose of creating "both actual and apparent trading in the securities of the Alleghany corporation" to induce the plaintiffs to purchase them "at the false, fraudulent, fictitious and excessive prices" set out in the purchase agreement.

The second paragraph of the complaint is a common law action for damages based on charges of fraud and deceit by the defendants in the sale of the securities.

Secret High School Group to Disband to Avoid U. S. Quiz

Oklahoma City—(P)—The C. C. C. secret high school students' black-shirt organization which advocates a new economic order, dissolved today under threat of a congressional investigation.

After Chairman Dies (D-Texas) of the house committee investigating un-American activities wired for information, Assistant County Attorney E. W. Brown persuaded the group's leaders to disband "at least until the present 'stink' is over."

Brown said it was "evidently a harmless high school gang."

Widespread attention focused on the organization after 19-year-old Commissioner Milton Walter asserted the C. C. C. (Curiosity club) reached into high schools at New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Seattle, Bridgean appropriation of $10,000 to the state trade practice department.

Before McPhee explained his objections Attorney Rector asked permission to intervene.

Rector asserted it was not his intention to attack anyone's integrity but felt he should point out that the governor was a party to the action, that the governor had appointed counsel for both sides and that there was a political issue involved "whether we like it or not."

In a heated interruption, Judge Reis declared he did not want to hear any kind of a political discussion, that he was interested solely in questions of law.

It took the court nearly an hour to iron out the questions of law which were tied up with the intricacies of state finance dating back as far as 1868 when the Civil war bonds were issued. Part of these bonds were used in building the old state capitol despite the constitutional ban against state debt for any purposes other than war, but the supreme court decided in 1915 that the debt was legal.

McPhee wished to open that question again but Judge Reis indicated he would be bound by the 1915 decision.

Question Of Legality

The court declared that in his opinion the present emergency board, consisting of the governor and the senate and assembly chairmen of the joint legislative finance committee, undoubtedly had the statutory power to make appropriations from the general fund and that he saw the matter it was solely a question of whether such authority was constitutional.

There was another complication in the fact that the supreme court, in 1923, held the emergency board law valid but at that time the secretary of state and the treasurer served with the governor.

Judge Reis warned the Damann-Levitan attorneys that if they challenged the legality of the Civil war debt or the emergency board law in its entirety the two state officials might be held responsible for any payments they made on emergency board authorization at any time they were in office during the last 10 years.

The court declared he could not see the advisability of questioning the Civil war debt when it has been paid in interest "five times over."

Rector asserted he would not attack the emergency board law in full, conceding that the board should have power to adjust expenditures to receipts, but he contended that arbitrary and uncontrollable powers were granted by the last legislature.

He said the $10,000 appropriation to the trade practice commission, which is to be used for a food survey, is open to question because there has been no court ruling on the constitutionality of the trade practice law.

Their mother, Mrs. Christian F. Johnson, died here in 1933, and in 1936, when Frank testified he had not seen his brother for seven years, Charles was declared dead to settle the estate.

When Frank Johnson died in St. Louis last spring, his brother, who had been a news vendor, appeared at the funeral.

Judge Lurvey reserved his decision but indicated he would void the previous action.

Indiana Supreme Court Spikes Move For Vote Recount

Indianapolis—(P)—An order of the Indiana supreme court stopped 11 beaten Republican candidates for state offices today from getting a recount in seven counties of votes cast in the Nov. 8 election.

The court handed down late yesterday a temporary writ of prohibition commanding circuit judges of Marion, Lake, Vanderburgh, Vigo, Clark, Franklin and Vermillion counties to halt proceedings in the candidates' recount suits until ordered otherwise. It scheduled a hearing Dec. 1 on whether to make the order permanent.

Successful Democratic candidates petitioned for the writ. Democrats won all state offices except secretary of state, which went to James Tucker, Paul Young Republican leader.

Tuesday the court granted Senator Frederick Van Nuys, Indianapolis Democrat, a writ of prohibition to prevent a recount in the same counties of votes for senator. His Republican opponent, Raymond E. Willis of Angola, asked the recount.

Rags-to-Riches Life Story of 'Sol' Levitan Has Sad Ending

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Under the statehouse dome here the final chapter of one of the most singular and yet most natural political biographies is being written today.

The story is that of Solomon Levitan, 76-year-old state treasurer who cheerlessly contemplates turning over his office to a successor next month. "Uncle Sol" to thousands of friends and admirers, he is the tragic symbol of the penniless immigrant rising to wealth and position, and down again. One of the most noted Jewish politicians in America is completing a record of public service in Wisconsin which friends applaud and political opponents envy.

But he is completing his record involuntarily, as a defeated politician. And he is sad, for optimist though he is, he realizes that at 76 it is not well to think of a comeback two or four years hence.

Old Sol, whose name and fame have been recognized nation-wide despite the fact that the name of LaFollette has dominated Wisconsin politics for decades, who knows more of Wisconsin's farmers and toilers by their first names than any other politician ever knew, who was one of the leaders in the famous LaFollette insurgent movement long ago, who made and lost a million dollars and became the biggest vote-getter in Wisconsin's political history, Uncle Sol's career has come to an end, an end he would have avoided if he could.

As the picturesque patriarch thinks of his accomplishments at the close of his service in public life, he can recall what is easily the most fascinating life story in the annals of Wisconsin politics.

Today his flowing, uncut white hair and beaming smile is familiar in every community in the state, he has made speeches in every state in the union, he is gratified immensely by the possession of whole trunks full of newspaper and other press clippings. Yet 50 years ago he was a humble, penniless immigrant Jewish peddler, a foreign tramp in a German agricultural state, a refugee from Hebrew persecution in Russia.

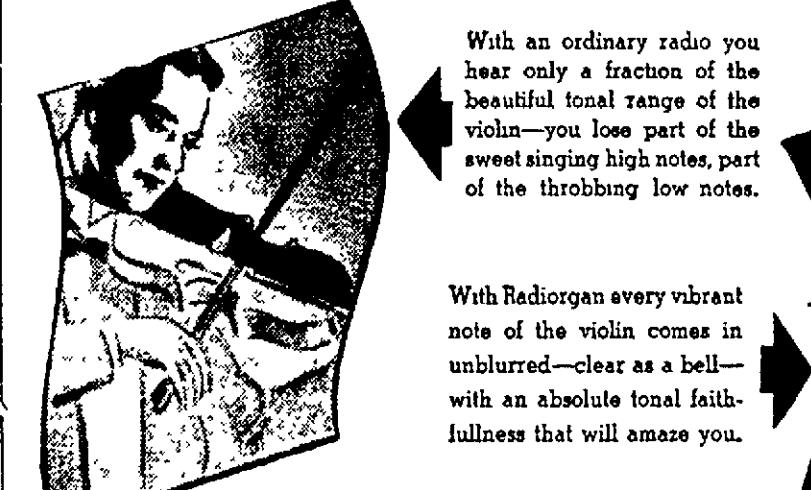

No Longer Wealthy
Fifty years ago he came to Wisconsin, began his itinerant merchandising among the stolid Swiss farmers of southern Wisconsin. He grew to be merchant, banker, financier, politician, and dean of the Progressive party.

Now he is poor—for the depression took away most of his considerable wealth, he is a defeated politician, an ex-officio-holder, and according to the younger bosses of the Progressive party, at the end of his political career.

It is the story of a man who has outlived his political time.

office. There will be a general discussion in the afternoon on the various problems with reference to this particular territory.

THE DEFENSE OF THE AMERICAS

Some of our well organized pacifist groups are formulating attacks upon the President's plan of national defense. They have denounced it as "hysterical."

Our plans of national defense are made by the army and navy. They result only from the most careful deliberation. Study and conference are the accepted means of arriving at conclusions.

There is always a chance that, with extra industry to be super-safe, the equipment and personnel demanded may exceed sufficiency. But in weighing the quality of error that is to be found in all human computations we rather think we prefer that of the army and navy to that of professional peace organizations. We will be glad to take an overabundance of rifles and planes to a shortage.

America is unafraid and it is anything but hysterical, but it has too much grey matter above its ears to fail in precautionary measures when warned as it has been warned.

Some of the world's strongest and most warlike nations have definitely turned their backs upon anything appearing like human idealism. They rage at the thought of peace and become infuriated at the idea of democracy. They are not only openly aiming at conquest but have set out upon their journey. Germany said it could not hold its army back from the Sudetenland. Mussolini said he could not hold his army back from Ethiopia. The Mikado indicated that he could not stay his marching hosts from China. All were prepared. Preparedness was the vital factor. And so we witness the humiliating spectacle of China with its 450 million people buckling in to a nation with but 20 per cent of its population. China finds it pretty hard to fight and prepare at the same time.

Today, by means of publications, commercial agents, money and a long line of immigrants, the warlike nations are literally invading South and Central America. Give them a fair chance of success and they will strike. Concede to them the handicap of preparedness and you will find they will never concede to us the chance to catch up.

There is nothing hysterical about the thought that if America does not adequately prepare we will find these despots moving in to the south of us. And we must prevent that with almost the same certainty that we would prevent a direct assault upon our own shores.

America stands for defense and it stands by the President when he supports defense. Whatever happens in the future let it not be said that democracy lost the battle to autocracy because the latter was smart though wicked and the former was witless though amiable.

THE LIVING AND THE DEAD

A new tomb has few friends. It may be its cold and forbidding exterior. It may be the virility of its ghost.

But time softens everything, even tombs. In one century they may repel human attentions, in another embrace them in friendly fashion.

At least that is the way the Dean of Westminster Abbey, that lordly place in London where so many of the English great are buried, looks upon it. Or mayhap curiosity, than which mankind has known few greater stimuli, is accomplishing its prodding work.

Not content with opening the tomb of Spencer to satisfy a crew who handed on the tale of a fishmonger's wife, in order to settle the Baconian theory which is a controversy that can easily be kept alive another thousand years and furnish distraction for men who might otherwise use their time and talents to disrupt the busy, the noble Dean of the Abbey, according to the London Daily Mail, is preparing to open the tomb of the little Princess Katherine who is described as "possession great beauty but otherwise dumb and fit for nothing," and yet has been sleeping quietly and peacefully these 700 years and bothering no one half as much as the curious who want to handle her bones and see whether they were really brittle or not.

These modern grave robbers have many of the qualifications of statesmen, or at least the sort of statesmen that are often successful in democracies. They promise anything. If their promises fail, as is the almost invariable rule, at least they have had their fun.

Their promise in this particular is that the tomb will furnish proof that several other children were buried with the little princess and that a mystery of mysteries will also be solved—what became of the golden cup containing the heart of Henry FitzRichard who was murdered in the Cathedral at Viterbo.

Surely if that cup is found the march of the human race may be straightened out and its most difficult problems adjusted satisfactorily.

That should be as helpful as 30-dollars-every-Thursday.

FOOTBALL AND THE DAIRYMAN

The Green Bay Association of Commerce passed a resolution urging the management of the Green Bay Packers to provide for the hundred thousand who attend its Wisconsin games a dairy products concession.

It strikes us that the Association has pointed to a good piece of business and similar organizations all over the state may well consider the proposition.

Properly organized throughout the state the idea has all the essential elements of substantial usefulness.

It is a truism of advertising that an effort may be wasted unless an opportunity is also presented to cash in on the publicity. Few better opportunities are available for a quarter of the year than our fall athletic contests growing in popularity and attendance with every passing season.

At Madison there is another fall crowd of 100,000 to watch Wisconsin in its home games.

What is the attendance at similar contests at all our colleges, and our hundreds of normal schools, high schools and other preparatory institutions? A total estimate of half a million people will not be wide of the mark. Perhaps it is much more.

This opportunity for business is sharpened by the intermission, and whetted by the average youthful age of a large percentage of the attendance.

But publicity will do dairy products little good if they aren't on hand when opportunity is knocking at the door and calling for them.

Giving up this field to their competitors will never pay the taxes on the farm. We in Wisconsin must adhere closer together in employing all natural, normal and legitimate means to extend the business and prosperity of our great industries, whether the paper industry of the Fox River Valley, the machinery industry toward the Illinois border or the dairy industry which is scattered throughout the state.

And as sensible people we must remember that—BUSINESS BEGINS AT HOME.

If we continually let fine opportunities slip through our fingers then we blame the residents of Arkansas and Nevada for failing to support us?

Rather does it become the particular concern of this state to formulate sound, practical, clean proposals for the stimulation of the business of our industries and push them into other states wholly upon their merits. That is the American way. And that is the way that pays dividends.

It is meet and proper that the initial impetus in a proposition of this kind should come from a Chamber of Commerce. Such an institution is ordinarily organized to make the necessary follow-up between its resolution and actual application.

If this plan is adopted throughout the state it has a good opportunity to travel far.

And it should, because there is nothing artificial about it. All its earmarks are genuine.

SLACKS FOR COURT COSTUME

There is something lost by way of coherence when a judge dressed in a gown punishes a woman for contempt because she came to court in a pair of those loose pants called slacks. The news items didn't say that the judge who felt the court's dignity imposed upon by the lady wore a gown at the time but such a wrap has long been a courtly prerogative.

Fortunately the appellate court in California saved the lady from the jail, unable as it was to find anything in bad taste about her costume.

It would be not amiss though highly inconsistent were the lady in question to appear at court in the only other article of wearing apparel which she said she owned, an evening gown, and if the latter happened to be one of the low and strapless variety the problem would become more complicated than ever.

In closing the book upon this California story we may with safety conclude that the judge was young and inexperienced else he would have known better than to needlessly tread upon a jurisdiction never granted him, that of women's apparel. Instead of rushing in where any wise man would have turned away the judge can still thank his stars that he bore no final responsibility in the matter.

A Verse for Today

THE LAST LEAF

Some trees reluctantly shed their last leaves. As if they would cling closely to old friends. Who are so comforting when the wind grieves. And when that last lone beam of sunlight eases.

The winter of my life approaches now. And it is strangely heartening to feel That one friend cleaves to the forsaken bough. As in the West the twilight shadows steal.

The soybean has been a principal crop in the Orient for probably fifty centuries, but it is only just coming into its own in this country.

The United States consumes roughly half the world's annual production of rubber, largely because of intensive development of the automobile industry.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Beautiful Lady:

Miss America of 1934 and I put our heads together over a pair of innocuous lemons last night, but nothing much came of it. I'm afraid it was her fault. I could be wrong. It may have been the lemons.

I had vaguely hoped that this beautiful young woman would recite a story of glamour and amour, of social whirl and footlight frivolity, of champagne dinners and gay swains. She let me down.

Four years after being named America's most beautiful girl, Miss Marian Bergeron of West Haven, Conn., is still single. Other Miss Americas have been wed and un-wed and re-wed. Miss Bergeron gave one reason for remaining single by saying: "It is customary to be asked first, isn't it?"

She must have been spoofing you Mr. Harrison. Dumb I may be, but I am not dumb enough to believe that Miss America of 1934, more beautiful now than she was then, has reached her twentieth year without receiving at least 50 proposals. Our sterling young men are not that stupid.

I thought it would be interesting if Miss Bergeron would tell me her measurements as of '34 and as of even date so that I, in my best analytical style, could draw an analogy. I thought it would be highly educational to compare, say, the '34 and '38 waistlines of a Miss America. If '38 found Miss America plumper I could then indite a diatribe against potatoes and other starchy foods, and in my best pulpit manner I could sound a warning to American womanhood.

Miss Bergeron, unfortunately, had no idea what the figures were. She didn't appear to be even interested. Instead of her being impressed with the importance of having been a Miss America, she is more concerned with being just Miss Bergeron.

She went home immediately after being named Miss America, and has been home ever since, coming to New York only lately when she decided upon a career.

"I like West Haven, but I don't want to settle down there, marry a home town boy, and live out my days that way," she said. (I seem to remember having heard other girls say much the same thing.)

Without making any effort to capitalize on her Miss Americanism, she now is "doing the vocals" with Bobby Parks' orchestra at El Rio; and I would like to say to her folks up in West Haven (who didn't like the idea of her becoming a night club singer) that she sings well and simply, and is one of the most attractive singers in town.

And that isn't the lemonade talking, either!

They, The People:

Orson Welles, the Martian menace, whose vivid radio dramatization of the "War of the Worlds" might have scared a lot of people to death (and got him a five-year air contract), was born in Kenosha, Wis. His first name was George, after George Ade, the humorist. He never uses it now. Only 23, he first went on the stage as "Madame Butterfly's" baby with the Chicago Opera Co. His sceneless "Julius Caesar" lifted him to Broadway attention last year. His "Danton's Death" this season wasn't so hot.

Mr. Eleanor Roosevelt, family home is on East 68th Street, a transatlantic thoroughfare that bumps into Central Park a few blocks away. She is seen equally often farther downtown, on 11th Street, just north of Greenwich Village. She has a studio apartment in the home of Miss Esther Lane, and does much of her literary work there.

Tommy Dorsey, leader of a "hot" band. He recently collaborated in writing a novel, "Love in Swingtime." The story inspired Tin Pan Alley to turn out a song of the same title. The song, just published, bears Dorsey's picture in flattering colors on the cover, and some additional Dorsey data on the back. There is just one hitch: Dorsey doesn't like the song, and his is one of the few bands that don't play it! (Copyright, 1938)

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Nov. 29, 1913

A Civic league was to be organized in Appleton as the result of a meeting of ladies of the city of the previous afternoon. One of the objects of the proposed league was to effect a consolidation of charitable organizations to secure greater efficiency in the work of assisting the poor. Temporary officers elected were Mrs. J. S. Reeve, president; Mrs. Rush Winslow, Mrs. W. S. Smith, Mrs. William Van Nortwick, Miss Mary Banker, Mrs. Frank P. Young, Mrs. Peter McNaughton, vice presidents; Mrs. James A. Wood, secretary; Mrs. Frank E. Wright, treasurer.

John Street was undergoing repairs that were to make the street as good as new when completed. The dirt had been scraped off and the old surface scratched to a depth of three or four inches with the aid of a harrow. This was to be resurfaced with crushed lime stone and rolled.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Nov. 24, 1928

Outagamie county residents were to pay $740,300.64 in taxes in 1929, or about $4,000 less than in 1928, according to the tax budget approved by the county board at its final meeting of the fall session at the courthouse that morning. The budget for 1928 was $744,400.16 while in 1927 a total of $783,530.77 was raised.

Miss Betty Meyer, who presented The Lord's Prayer by Francois Coppe, was awarded first place in the George Dame declamatory contest at the high school the previous evening. Miss Meyer was to receive the loving cup presented each year by Mr. Dame and was to represent Appleton High school in the Fox River valley declamatory contest at West Green Bay High school in December.

Mrs. Helen Keating was elected president of the Philip household, Order of Martha, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Waites, S. State street. Mrs. Keating was to succeed Mrs. William Keller. Other officers named were Mrs. Michael Peters, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Wolter, secretary, and Mrs. Waites, treasurer.

Opinions of Others

LAWLESSNESS DID IT

The Philadelphia Bulletin says of the recent Michigan election that Gov. Murphy was "defeated on his record of being too pro-labor."

We want to set the Bulletin right on that point, which involves a distinction the eastern press generally has failed to make.

Gov. Murphy was not defeated for being "pro-labor." The people of Michigan are not at all hostile toward union labor as such. What defeated the governor was, as we all know, his attitude and action respecting the sit-downs and the Lansing "holiday," which the people regarded as "too pro-labor-lawlessness."

The distinction is not an academic one, as illustrated by the fact that one wing of the Michigan labor movement now is blaming Murphy's defeat, quite rightly, on those of its brother unionists who promoted the sit-downs. To the extent that the governor was labor's candidate in the election, a correct interpretation of the result is that labor in truth defeated itself.

To interpret it in terms of pro and anti-labor is unfair to Michigan voters, who did not see the issue in that light at all.—Detroit News.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—We should like to be able to tell G-M-H Hoover and the University of Illinois that the seven Afghans brought here for scholarly purposes will show up in class on a cold Monday morning dressed in a bur-noose, sash and scimitar.

Grover

What is true is that of the seven natives of far off Afghanistan who have come to the United States, five wish to learn to teach. The other two, of all things, want to be G-men. And they dress like Americans, or shall we say that Americans dress like these Afghans.

Afghanistan, which adjoins India's widest northwest corner and extends northwestward until it borders Russia, is represented in this country by the Turkish ambassador. For that reason the stylish Turkish embassy here was not especially surprised one day when the seven natives, very dark in texture, but aryan nevertheless, showed up at the front door.

They had a quaint experience to relate. Albert W. Payne, an adventurous scholar from the University of Illinois, had gone to Afghanistan to teach in the University at Kabul, the capital. The young men are the first fruit of his teaching. He evidently taught English and Illinois, because of the seven, all spoke English and five would hear of nothing else than that they should go at once to the University of Illinois to learn to be teachers like Mr. Payne.

Late For School

Unfortunately they got off to a late start from Afghanistan and so arrived in America two months or more after the fall term of the colleges had begun. The embassy may start them in the second semester.

The remaining two expect to study police courses in various colleges and take also a turn at the G-man training school in the Department of Justice here. When their education is finished, all will go back to Afghanistan to government jobs, the teachers to instruct in the colleges and the two G-men to track down Afghan bad men.

Reports we have heard indicate this latter is no inviting task. Afghans are probably the world's most advanced rugged individualists, although times and the automobile have wrought many changes. Since only a few years ago when Afghanistan was truly the wild spot of the world, now Kabul is considered a nice place, with good skiing in winter.

Minnesota May Be Next

The names of the seven students were typed out for us at the embassy, but we don't know which are to be educators and which are to be Afghan sleuths. At any rate here they are:

Mohamed Asghar, Mohamed Rasool Taraki, Abdul Sattar, Abdul Chafur, Mir Amanullah, Abdul Kayum, Farid Mohamed. All have a fairly metropolitan background, being chosen from middle class to well-to-do residents of Kabul. Their scholarship is far from backward. All arrived here trained in mathematics through the calculus. We challenge a solitary G-man to match that.

The next crop of students probably will want to attend the University of Minnesota because the latest instructor sent to Afghanistan is Wilbur W. Harlan from that school. His father is a scientist in the Department of Agriculture. Young Mr. Harlan will teach physics and biology at the University of Hailaba as a colleague of Mr. Payne.

Surprise Party Given At Leeman Residence

Leeman—Mrs. Charles Carter was surprised by a group of friends and neighbors at her home on Thursday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary. Cards and music were the chief diversion. An oyster supper was served at midnight.

Those present were Mrs. Julia Griebel, Howard Griebel, Peter Sonnen, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. COOK AMERICAN

Tuskegee, Ala.—(AP)—Lucius Boomer, New York hotel and restaurant executive, told members of Tuskegee dietetics not to try to be French cooks or Italian cooks.

"Be American cooks," Boomer advised the class during a visit to the famous Alabama negro school. "There is a great future in American cooking," he continued. "Americanize the menu; never use foreign terms if you can avoid it; make your dishes American."

THE CARE OF DOGS

Don't pare corns or calluses—wipe 'em away. Always danger of cutting into the "quick" in attempting to pare off a corn or a callus. That entails a serious risk of infection.

Old reliable corn remedy is standard everywhere and is composed of Salicylic acid, 30 grains (one-half teaspoonful). Flexible collodion, 1 ounce (tablespoonful). This should be labeled "Corn Remedy." Paint corn, callus or wart with it once a day for a week or ten days. The corn, callus or wart softens and may be wiped away. (Sometimes fluid extract of cannabis indica is added, but this is not essential.) Flexible collodion is a solution of phoroxylon (gun cotton) in alcohol and ether, with a few drops of castor oil added. If not kept tightly stoppered the solvents quickly evaporate, leaving a dense mass. Addition of more alcohol and ether will again dissolve the mass. Using the remedy it is essential to keep the liquid off from the neck of the vial as much as possible.

Excessive or foul sweating of the feet may be prevented or relieved by the judicious use of formaldehyde. To control moderate sweating of the feet of child or adult, pour into each shoe a solution of a tablespoonful of Liquor Formaldehydum (official standard solution 37 per cent) in ten or fifteen tablespoonfuls of water, swirl it about so as to moisten the entire insole and lower edges of shoe lining, then immediately drain it into the next shoe, and so on until all footwear is similarly treated. Then let the shoes stand drying for at least twenty-four hours before you wear them again. Such treatment of footwear once a month, or in more severe cases twice a month, will control the trouble, as a rule. In using formaldehyde be careful to keep it off from normal skin. Formaldehyde is a disinfectant, deodorant and harmless to colors, fabrics, leather. If applied too strong it whitens and causes subsequent peeling of the skin. Its characteristic odor disappears in the course of a few hours drying.

Foot itch, (so-called athlete's foot, ringworm, trench foot, trichophytosis, epidermophytosis, fungus of the feet or elsewhere) with plain gasoline for a minute or two, then applying Whitfield's ointment which is made of:

Salicylic acid, 15 grains; Benzoic acid, 25 grains; Petroleum (petroleum jelly), 2 drams (teaspoonfuls); Coconut oil, enough to make one ounce.

To be applied once daily for a week, then rest a week, then apply for another few days if necessary.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Senna
Will senna pods or leaves made into a tea and taken nightly benefit arthritis? I took some last night after eating a quantity of starchy and sugary food and much to my surprise my fingers did not ache this morning, as they usually do when I awake. (S. M. L.)
Answer—So far as I know, senna is merely a physic. If your bowel seems sluggish it might be much better to endeavor to overcome the constiveness by supplementing your diet with an adequate ration of vitamin B complex, especially if you are following a restricted diet.

What to Eat
I want to thank you for the blessed relief my mother obtained by following instructions in your monograph "What to Eat." She had depended on cathartics for twenty years. (Mrs. R. W.)
Answer—More people should eat more of the wheat more of the time. Where to get plain wheat and how to use it in the everyday dietary is described in the monograph "Wheat to Eat," for copy of which send a stamped envelope bearing your address.

A CHRISTIAN ACT

Editor Post-Crescent—In glancing over the Chicago Daily Tribune, I read an article where Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan granted a writ of habeas corpus to the alien Solomon Weinberg, and freed him from custody. The judge said that to deport a Jew to central Europe at the present time would be "cruel and unusual punishment."

I certainly admire the position taken by this judge as the treatment the Jews are receiving over the waters today from the German government is to say the least brutal and inhuman. It has been shown that the said Weinberg has been a good citizen even though he may have come here illegally.

To send him back to Germany where that tyrant Hitler is in supreme power, and treating the Jews like cattle would be in my opinion a very unchristian act and deserving of the condemnation of every American. All honor to Judge Sullivan.

J.M. Waites.

WHY WAR PROPAGANDA?
Editor Post-Crescent—Why so much talk about war lately? Can't Americans remember that in the last great war fifty-one thousand men of American armed forces died in action, and two hundred and thirty-four thousand were combatant casualties during that period. War is deadly. War is devastating. War is horrible. Still propaganda for and against military warfare screams across the pages of our press. Meanwhile we keep right on supplying Japan with 15 million barrels of petroleum products annually and American oil companies have erected oil tank farms in Japan through their Japanese subsidiaries. Japan is the largest purchaser of scrap metals in the United States. We sell Japan scrap steel, machinery, airplanes, and munitions to promote war. The General Motors Export Division is trying to sell more trucks and cars to foreign nations. War is always good business even if it takes human beings to provide the business. The United States has profited hugely through supplying these sinews of war to foreign nations. The appeal of the propaganda to the public for and against war is based on the protection of our national honor, and the defense of our eminent domain. But business and the national administrations have the real primary purpose of building up a popular demand for larger armed forces. It is that the federal printing may be pumped into the capital goods industries. Thus financial salvation will be injected into their corporate structure by this pumping in of federal funds, which the citizens of the United States will pay for through added taxes. It wishes the people of the United States to finance the next war at their own expense and to pay business for making the sucker citizen pay for it. Let us remember this fact, no other nation can promote a war without obtaining the necessary materials and natural resources from the United States. Therefore America can and should be independent, take care of her own problems and stay in her own backyard.
Carl E. Wettengel.

Your Birthday

"SAGITTARIUS"
If November 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 to 10:45 a. m.; from 12:45 to 2:45 p. m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:45 to 8:45 a. m., from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m., and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Do not place too much confidence in promises hastily made this day. Any form of contract must be considered carefully before being entered into. If this day's efforts are to result in future good. It will pay to maintain a kindly attitude towards everyone. For a lack of sympathy or harshness may result in discordant conditions and upsetting plans. Speculative ventures may tempt the unwary, but should receive the "cold shoulder" from people of limited means. Do not hasty buying, for careful trading may result in very good bargains. This ought to be a buyer's market, for competition is likely to be exceedingly keen. Avoid any display of narrow-mindedness because prejudice may be responsible for much injustice. Married and engaged couples, as well as those in love, must plan their social activities together, if dissension is to be avoided.

If a woman and November 28 is your birthday, you must remember that friends are capable of giving both good and bad advice. It might be well to weigh any advice carefully, and then make your own decision. You are apt to have many varied interests and some are likely to be very profitable. You may find yourself in a position to accumulate money. The disbursement of funds is likely to become one of your responsibilities, which you probably will do in a most efficient manner. As a musician, librarian, research worker, interior decorator, model, designer, store executive, author or broker your results should be most gratifying. With you, married life will not be a case of "love's labor lost," but instead it ought to be a decided gain in every respect.

The child born on November 28 should have a remarkably clear understanding of what his parents and teachers expect of it. The spirit of cooperation is likely to be a noticeable characteristic. Music and literature more than likely will greatly influence this youngster's future. Most children born on this date appear to be predestined to be winners in the struggle for supremacy in whatever career they adopt.

If a man and November 28 is your natal day, your mannerisms are apt to be distinctive. Your personality may enable you to succeed where others would fail. As an educator, lawyer, doctor, clergyman, actor, engineer, chemist, writer or promoter, your achievements may be outstanding

'Racket Busters'

Showing at Elite

George Brent, Humphrey Bogart Head Cast Of Feature

Like the same studio's "Public Enemy," "G-Men," "Black Legion," and a host of other notable pictures, "Racket Busters," the Warner Bros. - Cosmopolitan production showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday, is an absorbing, gripping, upsetting tale fashioned around a topic taken right from the front pages of today's newspapers. The title is self-explanatory. The picture, made from an original screen play written by Ben Rosen and Leonardo Bercovici, is a thoroughgoing expose of the cancer of racketeering eating at the heart of almost every large American community today, and, more important, it tells in detailed and exciting—fashion how this malignant growth can not only be halted but eradicated.

Lively Entertainment
Every motion picture is produced primarily for entertainment, and "Racket Busters" is no exception, but the Warner Studio has demonstrated again and again that it knows the trick of combining entertainment and vivid exposition of a live topic.

The most important of those tricks, of course, is providing a good cast and a good director. Heading the cast of "Racket Busters" are such players as Humphrey Bogart in the role of a big-time racketeer, George Brent, as an independent truckman who helps stamp out the evils, Gloria Dickson, as his wife, Allen Jenkins, as Bren's pal, and Walter Abel, as the Special Prosecutor, while the production was directed by that sure-fire molder of successes, Lloyd Bacon.

Crosby, MacMurray

In Show at Appleton

Hollywood's newest pair of screen brothers are Bing Crosby and Fred MacMurray, who head the cast in the madcap comedy, "Sing You Sinners," which is now being shown at the Appleton Theatre.

Playing together for the first time, Fred is cast as the serious minded and hard-working member of the tempestuous "Beebe" family, while Bing is his lackadaisical and will-may-care brother, whose inability to land a job and contribute to the household expenses nearly drives Fred mad. Elizabeth Patterson, as the strong-willed mother who ends up as madcap as her sons, and Donald O'Connor, as the kid brother, complete the "Beebe" family.

The story, written by Claude Binyon, an ex-newspaperman and author of "I Met Him in Paris" and "True Confession," traces the adventures of the unpredictable "Beebes" from their small town beginnings to their thumping final success in the night club and racing paddocks of fabulous Los Angeles. Their rise starts when Bing, believing the home town too small for his talents, leaves for the big city, promising to send for his mother and kid brother as soon as he gets well established.

Bing's dizzy career in Los Angeles parallels the star's own colorful life story. After making an immediate killing at the races, he buys a swapshop with his winnings. But, by the time Miss Patterson and young O'Connor arrive they find he has traded his business for a racehorse, on which he places everything he and they have in the world. Through the unexpected performance of the horse and the intercession of MacMurray, who organizes his brothers and himself into a night club singing trio, the "Beebes" bring their Los Angeles adventures to a successful, although startling conclusion.

"Sing You Sinners" is paced by four new song hits from the pens of some of the top composers of Hollywood. Heading the list is "Small Fry," written by Hoagy Carmichael, the composer of the never-to-be-forgotten "Star Dust." The other numbers are "I've Got a Pocket Full of Dreams," "Laugh and Call it Love," and "Don't Let That Moon Get Away."

The second feature on this program is "Young Dr. Kildare" starring Lew Ayres, Lynne Carver and Lionel Barrymore.

Hollywood — The longer I know Jackie Cooper, the more he amazes me. Eight years ago, with all America showering him with flattery, he should have been a spoiled brat. Today, having successfully weathered the "awkward age" and risen again to stardom, he should be a precocious, insufferably cocky, pain-in-the-neck. But he wasn't—and he isn't. Jackie, I honestly believe, is the most normal youngster I've ever known.

And it's that normalcy—that absolute fidelity to age-type—that has topped every screen precedent and carried him through the early years of adolescence which usually write finish to a child star's career. I believe audiences instinctively resent the immature maturity affected by most screen children. Such kids don't ring true.

How Jackie's mother managed to save him from the head-swelling that usually afflict child prodigies, I don't know. But whatever her system was, it should be copied by every other mother whose spring-off works before the cameras, for it has been a conspicuous success. And I think I heard the greatest tribute paid her that any sensible mother could wish for yesterday, when I asked a classmate of Jackie's, in Beverly High School, what the kids there think of "Skippy" Cooper. "We gave him the works at first," he told me, "but that was when we figured he was a spoiled movie star. He's tops with us now. 'Coop'—he's regular!"

A certain fan magazine scribe whose flair for gilding the lily sometimes leads to a colorful distortion of fact, is writing a three-installment biography of Melvyn Douglas. The other day, he finished his first installment and, according to studio rule, took to Melvyn for an okay. The subject of all the superlatives read it with absorbed interest. "How do you like it?" demanded the writer eagerly when the reading was finally finished. Melvyn looked at him dryly. "The plot is a masterpiece," he said. "I can hardly wait to read the second installment and find out more about this guy, Douglas."

MEMORIES THAT BLESS AND BURN: When Bing Crosby, after seeing the "rushes" of his first movie, begged Mack Sennett to release him from contract. When Grace Moore did nip-ups because the studio, in reporting one of her ultra dinner parties, blue-penciled her wine list for fear it would prejudice prohibitionists against her pictures. When "Slim" Summerville was really slim. When a lanky western whom I lately recognized in Gary Cooper, tried to sell me a magazine subscription. When Lon Chaney, suffering from a bad case of nerves, trudged seven miles over a mountain pass, rather than ride the twisty grade in a studio location car. When Pola Negri set a new fashion in Hollywood tipping by giving the waiter half of a torn bill before dining—and the other half after satisfactory service had been delivered. When Douglas Fairbanks used to give magazine interviews while taking his daily sun bath.

The other day Lily Pons visited the set where Shirley Temple is making "The Little Princess" and Curley Top seemed a bit embarrassed when she was presented, in her ragged slavey costume, to the elegantly gowned diva. "It's just my picture costume," she explained. "You see, I start out as a rich little girl and end up like this. I guess you'd call me a backwards-Cinderella."

It's always night on a movie sound stage. When the magic makers want the sun to shine, they simply turn on the arc lights. But the process is not quite so simple when the scene calls for the sun to shine in shafts of visible light into a dusky room through its windows. I saw that effect achieved today for a scene in "Love Affair," the new Irene Dunne-Charles Boyer picture. First, the room was thoroughly smoked up by burning oil in smudge pots—the same contraptions that fruit ranchers use to protect their crops from frost. Then, when the air on the stage had reached a proper Pittsburgh density, small but powerful spotlights were directed through the windows. The effect was perfect but every suit on the set—including mine—will need a dry-cleaning.

Most disgusted man in Hollywood today is a certain bit player. Yesterday a studio called him, sent him to "wardrobe" and there fitted him out in the full dress uniform of a Revolutionary general. "Looks like a good part," said he to the director, indicating his elaborate uniform. "Uh-huh, sign here," grunted the director. "We just want to take your picture to hang on the set wall. You're one of the hero's illustrious ancestors."

Power, Loretta Young

In 'Second Honeymoon'

Acclaimed by increasing numbers of fans with each new picture as the most exciting sweethearts of the screen, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young are co-starring again in "Second Honeymoon," coming to the Elite theater for three days starting next Wednesday. Already hailed as the merriest, "marry-est" romance of the year, the film is said to be their perfect picture together. Their love is news again, but this time they mean it with all their hearts.

Love at first sight is romantic enough, Tyrone and Loretta agree, but love at second sight... MMM! They fall for each other twice in this gay hit. After parting in Reno, they meet accidentally under a thrilling Miami moon and kiss impulsively, to find they have fallen in love all over again.

Having left Tyrone because he was mad, irresponsible and gave her no sense of security, Loretta finds she wants him back for the same reasons. But a honeymoon renewed is not so easily accomplished as a honeymoon "Reno'd," especially when Loretta's second husband is considered. Played by Lyle Talbot, he is a common garden-variety of spouse out-bloomed by the hardy perennial that is Tyrone's and Loretta's love.

There are others, also, who have a say in the matter. There is Stuart Erwin, who is crazy about pretty Marjorie Weaver and, as a conscientious gentleman's gentle-

'Spring Madness'

Booked for 3 Days

Maureen O'Sullivan, Lew Ayres in Picture Coming to Appleton

College romance in the modern manner, with its inevitable problems of love and economics, provides the basis for the story of "Spring Madness," which opens Wednesday, Nov. 30 for three days at the Appleton Theatre with Maureen O'Sullivan and Lew Ayres heading a topnotch cast.

Others in prominent roles include Ruth Hussey, last seen with Ayres in "Rich Man, Poor Girl," Burgess Meredith, who has scored in one hit after the other on the New York stage, Ann Morris, Joyce Compton, Jacqueline Wells and Frank Albertson.

The story tells of a girl student at a New England school who falls in love with a man from Harvard. He is entirely serious about it, but in his initial emotion overlooks the fact that marriage without a job is scarcely practical. Then, too, he has been pledged for months to go abroad on graduation, because the prospects of a job at home are negligible. Bravely he breaks off the engagement and bravely the girl accepts it. But she begins to fail in her studies and her friends sense that she is losing her grip. This brings in the activities of a group of sorority girls and college men who develop complications with amusing rapidity. The Harvard youth realizes that nothing is so important as the girl and at the spring dance, when he finds her in the arms of a handsome young professor, he goes into action.

The story presents an engaging picture of college life today, with the colorful types that comprise the American student body. The second feature on this program is "Crime Over London" with Margot Grahame and Paul Cavanaugh. This is a highly dramatic story of criminal terror in a great city. Other performers are Gene Ray, Joseph Cawthorn, Basil Sydney and Bruce Lister.

Winchell, Bernie, Simone Simon in Musical Comedy

Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie, those famous feudists who put puns into their punches, are back for the greatest return match in history in "Love and Hisses," coming to the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days. This time the reason for all the barbed wit is the fight over their new sweetheart from Paris, the saucy and vivacious Simone Simon, who sings operatic arias and a popular ballads for the greatest surprise of the year. This new-idea musical show from hit-making Twentieth Century-Fox features a great laugh-a-second cast, including Bert Lahr, Joan Davis, Dick Baldwin, the Raymond Scott Quintet, Ruth Terry, Douglas Fowley and Chick Chandler.

Brand new hot-and-hissing songs by Gordon and Revel head the musical score, with additional hit parade leaders by Pollack and Mitchell. Raymond Scott, and Zeno and Irwin.

Darryl F. Zanuck, maker of the screen's biggest hit shows, was in charge of production and Sidney Lanfield directed. Lanfield also made "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Thin Ice," "One In A Million," and "Wake Up And Live."

The result is laughs and kisses, music and misses, and a show that's got "ummmph!" the 1938 requirement of musical comedies.

Capra Triumph to

Open Next Friday

'You Can't Take It With You' Is Coming to Rio Theater

Hailed as another Capra triumph, Columbia's screen version of the George S. Kaufman-Moss Hart Pulitzer play, "You Can't Take It With You," opens next Friday at the Rio theater with a cast which includes Jean Arthur, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold, Mischa Auer, Ann Miller and numerous others.

"You Can't Take It With You," was produced and directed by Frank Capra from the screen play by Robert Riskin. These Columbia film-makers have been lauded time and again for their "It Happened One Night," "Lady for a Day," "Lost Horizon," and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." "You Can't Take It With You," based on the stage success for which Columbia paid $200,000, is said to exceed even the previous efforts of the two brilliant collaborators.

The new film deals with the lovable and perfectly delightful Vanderhof family, which believes in doing whatever it wants whenever it wants to.

In their old New York home, presided over by Grandpa Vanderhof, this uninhibited group reveals a heart-warming attitude toward life in a merry-melange of comedy, flavored with romance and tinged with pathos.

"You Can't Take It With You" is concerned, in part, with the proud, aristocratic Kirbys, as well as with the carefree Vanderhofs. Kirby's monumental plan to form a huge munitions merger, a move which requires the purchase of all property within an area of twelve city blocks, is halted when Grandpa refuses to sell the Vanderhof home at any price. The plan of Kirby's son to marry Alice Sycamore, his secretary, is blocked when the boy brings his parents to dinner one night, only to discover the Vanderhof family engrossed in its various eccentric affairs.

The romance and merry-mad conflict of the two families, coupled with the enjoyable hobbies of the Vanderhofs and their many friends, is declared to make "You Can't Take It With You" one of the outstanding productions of the season.

First picture in what bids fair to be a highly popular series, "Nancy Drew—Detective" is co-featured on the same program, with Bonita Granville in the title role and Frankie Thomas, talented youngster from the New York stage, as her boy friend and "Watson."

The new series is based upon the exploits and adventures of the heroine of the Nancy Drew stories by Carolyn Keene, a succession of novels which are probably the favorite reading matter today of both boys and girls of the adolescent age.

Shirley Temple Film

On Mid-Week Program

There's so much to laugh at, so much to love, so many things to take away and remember in Shirley Temple's new picture, "Just Around The Corner," which heads the special mid-week program at the Rio theater on Wednesday and Thursday, that even the most glowing comment can hardly do justice either to Shirley or to the delightful show which 20th Century-Fox has fashioned around its Number One star.

For "Just Around The Corner" is not only the best picture Shirley Temple has ever appeared in, but also one of the most entertaining hits ever produced by the studio that has given us so many great pictures in the past. And it finds Shirley in her happiest role, one which allows her an occasional outburst of that mischievous humor which is said to be so characteristic of her irrepressible spirit outside the studio.

Among those who share in all this fun are Charles Farrell, as Shirley's Dad; Joan Davis, as lady-in-waiting to a kennel-full of Park Avenue pooches; Amanda Duff (a promising young newcomer to films) as the girl with whom Farrell is in love; Bert Lahr, as Joan's chaffeur-sweetheart; and the inimitable Bill Robinson who does a new dance routine with Shirley that surpasses even their sensational "Toy Trumpet" number in "Rebecca."

"Adventures in Sahara," an action-packed adventure film, with savage Sahara as its background, with the French Foreign Legionnaires as its principals, is the added feature on the same program. Featuring Paul Kelly as an American in the French military service; an attractive newcomer named Lorna Gray as his aviatrix sweetheart; and C. Henry Gordon as the tyrannical leg officer, "Adventures in Sahara," offers a thrill-packed hour of entertainment, with some fine comedy and tender romance as splendid contrasts to the more marital and dramatic sequences.

The book this year includes the plot, partial dialogue and pictures from 10 Broadway successes, ranging from "Of Mice and Men" by John Steinbeck to "What a Life" by Clifford Goldsmith.

Fully as readable as her first book is Anne Morrow Lindbergh's new book, "Listen! The Wind," the story of the flight made by the Lindberghs across the Atlantic ocean from Africa to Brazil in December, 1933.

The inspiring story of the founding of the Red Cross, characterized as the greatest humanitarian movement of the nineteenth century, is told by Marion Gumpert in "Henri Dunant; the Story of the Red Cross." An excellent new title for parents to add to their reading list on child care is "High, Wide and Deep" by C. Madeline Dixon. The book is practical and modern while the author is interested in building during the pre-school age for a well-developed adult personality.

Gas Demand Climbs As Families Prepare Thanksgiving Dinner

Neenah—Thanksgiving tables in Neenah and Menasha homes this year were piled higher than ever with good things to eat if the gas consumption figures released by A. C. Brown, Appleton, of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company are any indication. The gas consumption in the Twin Cities on Thursday was 340,000 cubic feet, about 70,000 cubic feet more than average for the day.

Either there were more good things to cook Thursday or many of the housewives decided to give the turkey an extra browning for the gas consumption was higher than it was in the two preceding Thanksgiving days. Three thousand more cubic feet of gas were burned this year for in 1937 the consumption on Thanksgiving day was 337,000 cubic feet and in 1936 it was 322,000 cubic feet. In each year the consumption on Thanksgiving day showed a decided increase over the consumption on the day preceding.

Milwaukee—(AP)—Mural designs for the Wausau post office were being received today at the Layton Art gallery, where they will be passed upon before they are sent to Washington to the treasury art project which is sponsoring the competition.

All designs, which are being submitted by artists of Illinois and Wisconsin, must be in by next Wednesday.

On the committee judging the designs at the art gallery are Miss Charlotte Partridge, director of the gallery; Alfonso Iannelli, Chicago sculptor; John Stuart Curry, artist in residence at the University of Wisconsin; and Harry Bogner, Milwaukee architect.

Artists submitting designs of distinction, if they do not receive the Wausau commission, will be invited to offer studies for murals for postoffices at Hartford, Neillsville and Reedsburg, Wis., and Madison, Herrin, Park Ridge and Staunton, Ill.

The Wausau murals, for which $1,600 will be paid, may deal with local history, past or present, or local industry, pursuits or landscape.

day's attack, advised several days of rest before the august pontiff should resume his customary rhythm of life.

"Therefore," it added, "his holiness limited himself this morning to receiving only the cardinal secretary of state."

Cardinal Facelli's visit was for the purpose of getting authorization to receive a group of newlyweds and a Hungarian pilgrimage to which the pope was to have granted an audience.

Monseigneur Carlo Confalonieri celebrated mass this morning in a room near the bedroom of the pontiff, who listened to the mass and took communion.

Later Father Gemelli, a friend of the pope, and Count Franco Ratti, the pope's nephew, arrived at the Vatican.

The communique brought reassurance to the thousands who had been concerned over the pope's condition yesterday and last night. Many had feared that his advanced age and weakened condition might make it difficult for him to recover.

Lorenzo Cardinal Lauri, chief penitentiary of the church, gave the pope absolution yesterday when those close to the holy father virtually despaired of his survival.

One of the few persons admitted to the pope's apartment said, however, that extreme unction — the last rite of the Roman Catholic church — had not been administered.

Thousands of Roman faithfuls arose at dawn to pray for the pope's recovery.

Writer Won't Tell Source of Remark

Answers Harry Hopkins Demand That He Reveal Name of Informer

Washington—(AP)—Arthur Krock, New York Times Washington correspondent, declined today to disclose the source of his information that Harry Hopkins, the Works Progress administrator, once told a friend: "We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect."

Hopkins, who previously had denied making the remark, wrote the Times yesterday asking it to identify the source. He asked if the public did not have a "right" to know "who started this unfounded story?"

In reply, Krock said he had "verified substantially the quotation—and the belief that it was seriously uttered—before making any use of it." He said, too, that it had been published by some other papers as long as Sept. 25 and not denied. Krock's statement concluded: "The friend who quoted Mr. Hopkins as substantially repeated is of excellent repute and not at all hard of hearing. He is at liberty to reveal himself if he so desires. I learned his identity in confidence and that confidence—unless I am released—I shall maintain."

Chevrolet Strikers Will Work on Monday

Detroit — (AP)—Sit-down strikers who had occupied one plant of the Chevrolet gear and axle division of General Motors Corp. since last night left the plant this morning and the company announced all employees would return to work Monday.

Negotiations were resumed today seeking settlement of the dispute that caused the strike. The principal issue was the 60-day suspension of two shop stewards blamed for the election of a non-union worker.

The sit-down had caused suspension of work in practically all sections of three other gear and axle division plants.

The Chevrolet gear and axle plants employ approximately 7,000 workers.

Aristocracy of Agriculture on Parade at Show

First Blue Ribbon Today Goes to Livingston, Wis., Youth

Chicago—(AP)—Aristocracy of agriculture went on parade today at the 39th international livestock exposition. The great farmland show opened for an eight-day run while potential grand champions of the cattle, horse, sheep and swine classes champed in their pens.

The first blue ribbon in the first class judging today went to Theodore J. Griswold of Livingston, Wis. Griswold, an 18-year-old 4-H club member, won class one of the junior livestock feeding contest. His creamy white short horn steer took the ribbon amid a round of applause from early-morning spectators scattered through the seats in the huge international amphitheatre.

Steers entered by Cyril Dieter, Vail, Iowa, and Warren Held, Hinton, Iowa, won second and third, respectively, in the same event. William J. Cumber, of Theale, Berkshire, England, the prominent British stockman who later will select the grand champion steer of the exposition, selected the first winners and continued judging all the junior contest cattle classes.

Specimens of the finest wheat, corn, oats and other grains on the continent awaited expert examination by judges whose duty it was to pick the "kings" of growers.

Junior Get Attention Attracting primary attention on opening day was the junior livestock feeding contest in which 274 boys and girls from 15 states entered 398 cattle, sheep and swine. Among them, somewhere, were the junior grand champion steer, barrow and wether.

Winners in the junior contest were to compete next week against entries of their elders in the open classes for the purple ribbons denoting the best animals in the show.

The 27 teams of college boys were ready to compete for trophies offered on the basis of their ability to judge livestock. Twelve teams of collegiate crops judges were entered.

The exposition animal entry list totalled 11,621, in 29 breeds. There were about 3,000 samples in the 20th annual international grain and hay show. Exhibitors came from 33 states and six Canadian provinces, competing for $100,000 in prizes.

Three hundred horses and ponies were entered for the exposition's 12 horse shows, the first of which was scheduled for tonight. Five hundred draft horses in addition paved their stalls.

Exposition officials expected 1,200 boy and girl farmers to attend the 17th annual 4-H club congress, Monday evening the big day for agricultural youth.

Educational exhibits by the United States department of agriculture and the national livestock and meat board were set up. The exposition program included a wool show, meat show and, on Friday, a national sheep shearing contest.

Greeks Have a Parliament Building but It Isn't Used

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

Athens—(AP)—There stands amidst beautiful surroundings in the heart of Athens, a structure so large and imposing that it immediately attracts the attention of the visitor. "That used to be the house of parliament," a resident explained to me, "but since we got a dictator we don't have any need of a parliament, and so they use the building for government offices."

This matter-of-fact statement, made with refreshing naivete, pretty well sums up the political situation in Greece at this important moment when the Hitlerian drive for domination is sweeping the Balkans.

The land which gave birth to democracy back in days when the gods still controlled human affairs from the heights of Olympus has one of the tightest totalitarian governments in any of the small countries.

And the average citizen will tell you bluntly that he doesn't like regimentation. That is, he will say so if none of the secret police of the Minister of Public Safety Maniatis are knocking about in the neighborhood with distended ears.

The tradition of freedom of political speech goes back to hundreds of years before the Christian era, and although it has been interrupted by conquerors, the Greek still cherishes the right to speak his mind.

The man who has imposed an authoritative government over his fellow citizens doesn't look at all the type you would expect to be holding down the lid of such a steaming kettle.

General John Metaxas has the appearance of being a gentle soul.

Certainly one finds it hard to reconcile his delightful and friendly smile with the fact that a host of his political opponents, whose number is estimated at some three or four thousand, is languishing in exile on the small islands off the Greek coast.

Metaxas rounded up all his enemies who were strong enough to do him harm and shipped them to the isles. Among them are many prominent men, such as Colonel Stylianos Gonatas, famous soldier and Republican leader, and ex-Premier George Kafanderis, one of the country's noted statesmen.

Metaxas, 67, was trained for the army and completed his studies at the Kriegsakademie in Berlin, a fact held to account to considerable degree for his strong liking for Germany and her culture.

Metaxas' chief of staff and there in political exile because of his political views. Finally in April of 1936, after King George's recall to the throne, we find the general made premier.

In August of that year the premier persuaded the king to dissolve parliament and rule by decree on the grounds that a communist revolt was brewing.

D. A. R. Will Restore Part Of Old Fort

PLANS for the restoration of the surgeons' quarters, only remaining building of historic Fort Winnebago at Portage, were described by Mrs. Vincent Koch, Janesville, state historian of the Wisconsin Daughters of the American Revolution, at a meeting of the Appleton chapter of the society Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Neidhold, 904 S. Pierce avenue.

Purchase and restoration of the surgeons' quarters was undertaken by the D.A.R. as a state project after an appeal from the Portage chapter, Mrs. Koch explained. A family on relief was living in the building and was tearing the old clapboards off the walls to use as fire wood, it was reported. The Portage chapter found a new home for the family and set about preserving the old quarters.

The state architect, Mrs. Koch told the women, says the building is well worth restoring. Plans are to use it as a medical museum and possibly to operate a tea room in connection with it.

Describes Background Describing the historical background of Fort Winnebago, Mrs. Koch said there is a story to the effect that John Jacob Astor, head of the American Fur company, had the fort erected to protect his fur trade. Whether at his instance or not, construction of the fort began in 1828. The work was done, she explained, by a group of military men from Fort Howard, Green Bay. In the group was Jefferson Davis, later to become president of the Confederacy.

Wisconsin became rapidly civilized, however, and by 1845, when Jefferson Davis had become secretary of war, there seemed no more need of a fort to protect the territory and Davis ordered its evacuation. A few years later, Mrs. Koch went on, it was sold at auction.

In 1856 a devastating fire demolished most of the building, and today the only one left is the surgeons' quarters.

Shows Pictures Mrs. Koch showed photographs of the quarters as they appear today.

Mrs. E. L. Mendenhall, Fond du Lac, state chairman of approved schools, also spoke, describing briefly the D.A.R.'s 17 approved schools and their aims. She explained that the organization did not disapprove other schools, but acted as god-mother to these 17, all of them established in underprivileged sections. Northland college at Ashland is the only one in Wisconsin.

Other state officers present were Mrs. W. Z. Stuart, Neenah, state regent; Mrs. F. J. Hall, Racine, state treasurer; and Mrs. Leslie Peace, Appleton, state chairman of student loans.

Helen Jepson Modern; Likes Popular Music

HELEN JEPSON, glamorous Metropolitan Opera soprano, who will appear at Memorial chapel Wednesday night on the current Community Artist Series, is a modern prima donna.

She isn't temperamental and says that she can't scare up a good outburst even for showmanship purposes.

She swims in the ocean with utter disregard of possible dire consequences to her priceless vocal chords. And so far there haven't been any.

She likes popular music and likes to sing it, can cook, and on occasion does.

Horseback riding, fishing and hunting are her principal amusements. For a hobby she goes in for rabbit raising and has made it a paying one.

Having had her full measure of ups and downs, Miss Jepson is of a most practical turn of mind. Tea parties, cocktail hours and night clubs see very little of Miss Jepson. Her endeavors toward perfection in her art are prodigious. "I shall never let myself think that I am at the top. Or at least, I shall always try to feel that the ladder really is a greased pole, with danger of one's slipping down much faster than one has climbed up. An operatic career is a serious thing—a 24-hour job."

This golden-haired star is attractive. She gives her audiences that bonus of complete relaxation, which comes both from her looks and the silvery charm of her voice.

Helen Jepson can be grave, she can be gay, she can be tranquil, she can be scintillating—truly, Helen Jepson is example enough that opera in America has gone a long way from the days when it was a heavyweight affair, that was more smart than enjoyable. Result, today audiences are afforded a completeness of satisfaction never equaled before.

Hunters Report Success in Woods

Nine Out of Twelve New London Sportsmen Return With Bucks

New London—Nine out of twelve New London hunters returned from the north woods with a buck during the last several days.

Kenneth Bleck and Leonard Dernbach left their party in the Land o' Lakes region Thursday to bring back their deer and get back to work. The remaining six in the party were reported on their way home today, every one with his quarry. They are L. J. Manske, George Charlesworth, Harvey Greenlaw, Clyde Roepke, Orville Froelich and Clarence Laux.

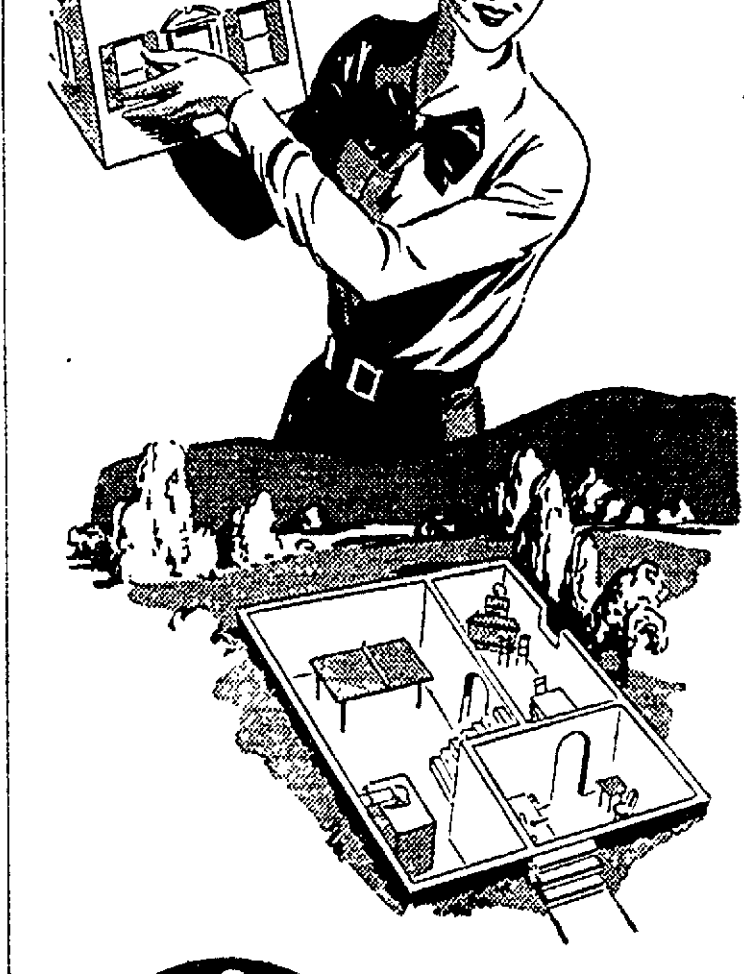

Ray Thomas, superintendent of the city light and water utility, returned yesterday afternoon with a buck. With him were Gerald Dent who also was successful. Thomas got his Saturday and went Monday but they stayed on until George Humblet could get his but he had no luck. They hunted beyond Eagle River.

William Stern, Sr. and son Bernard Stern each brought back a deer to the family Thursday night. Al Stern was with them around Sawyer but was unsuccessful. In another party in Vilas county, Matt Saindon and Ed Stern, Sr., each downed their quarry while Evan Stern felled.

Lytle McCully was the only successful nimrod in a party with three others from Clintonville. He got his buck early Saturday morning and the rest of the gang hunted until Thursday to no avail. They were above Rhinelander. The unlucky hunters were Walter H. Schroeder, George Stevens and Melvin Kirchner.

RECLAIM THOSE BASEMENT ROOMS with LIGHT

● If your basement is dark and gloomy you're missing out on a lot of pleasure and convenience. Today everyone is fixing up whoopee rooms and repainting laundries and furnace rooms, making "livable" rooms downstairs.

We're not suggesting that you spend a lot of money. We're suggesting that you "light up" downstairs. Put some light on the stairs, as a safety measure. Light up that old store room—it may make a swell place for a ping-pong table. Put more light in the laundry and do away with "blue Mondays".

"LIGHT CONDITION" YOUR HOME FOR CHRISTMAS!

Install modern, glareless light and give the whole family a Christmas treat for every day of the year!

Players Were Lucky in Bid And Outcome

BY ELY CULBERTSON
"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The hand below was dealt and played in a recent rubber game which I was watching. I have given the hand, the bidding, and the play, and I would like to know if the bidding was correct and, if so, whether you would have played the hand in the same way:
"North, dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
K 8
A 10
A K 10 9 8 4
WEST
K 7 5 4
Q 9 7 6 5
J 6 2
J 3
SOUTH
Q J 9 2
A K J 2
K J 8 8
A 6

"The bidding:
North East South West
1 club Pass 2 no trump Pass
4 no trump Pass 6 no trump Pass
7 no trump Pass Pass Pass

"West opened the heart six, declarer winning with the jack. The spade queen was led, covered by West, and taken with dummy's ace. The diamond ace was cashed and the ten of diamonds was finessed, South overtaking with the jack. The ace and king of hearts and three rounds of spades were cashed. When South played the last spade, the position was:

A 3
K None
Q None
A K 10 9
WEST
A 7
Q 8
J 7
SOUTH
K 2
Q 8
A 6

"The spade jack squeezed East. A club discard would establish dummy's entire suit, while a diamond discard would set up South's nine spot. Thus the grand slam contract was made. I would like your opinion on the whole thing.
W. F. A."

I'm glad my opinion was asked because it will be a pleasure to give it!

North-South must be two of the luckiest players outside of captivity, which it is evident they should be in. Their bidding was a great deal more suited to a bridge game. The final contract was a gem of the purest optimism, and the luck of fulfilling it, via two finesses and a squeeze, not to mention a heaven sent opening lead into South's heart tenace, was the sort of thing that turns sensible folk into voodoists.

Specifically: South should NOT have bid two no trump when holding a singleton of partner's suit bid. (One spade was the correct first response; if necessary, South should later show his other two suits.) North should NOT have been so enthusiastic about no trump as a final contract. His 6-4-2-1 distribution strongly called for a trump contract. West should NOT have led away from a guarded honor. The club jack was the markedly correct opening lead on the theory that it could not cost anything.

The final contract should have been six spades.

Wise Wife Welcomes In-Laws To Her Home, Goes to Theirs

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—My wife's family is always made welcome in our home, but my family has the door barged against it because its members are "in-laws who would tear our home to pieces if they were allowed to do it." My mother is gracious and well-bred, not a hysterical neurotic, as the psychologists seem to think all older women to be. She has a keen sense of humor and laughs a great deal. She is friendly and has a host of friends. She has been a grand mother to me and I love her devotedly. Nevertheless, in the five years we have been married my mother has been but three times in our house. My wife refuses to accept invitations from my mother and hits the ceiling when she hears that I have been to see her. She says that if she "permits my mother to drop in at any time she takes a notion that our marriage would go on the rocks, and that a son who wants to keep seeing his mother after he is married is a sissy and is not mature. If I let my wife know that I have been to see my mother, there is a row, but this sneaking out to see her once in a while makes me feel like a spineless cad, and I cannot accept this isolation from my family any longer and keep my self-respect. The result is that I am losing my affection for my wife. I am getting to look upon her as spiteful, petty and jealous, determined to separate me from my family at all costs. I am sick unto death at the lack of character that makes her do the things she does and am going to get a divorce if things don't change. Unless the time comes when all male children will be reared by the state, thereby severing all ties of association with their natural mothers, I am afraid wives are going to have to accept their husbands' mothers' with some show of tolerance and grace.

AN EXASPERATED HUSBAND.

Answer:
I don't wonder that you are exasperated and that you are contemplating leaving a wife who seems to have as little brains as she has heart. If she had any intelligence at all, she would know that there is nothing that a wife can do that so surely alienates her husband from her as for her to mistreat his mother. On the other hand, nothing so endears a wife to her husband as for her to make friends with his people and be one of the family that she has entered of her own accord.

Your wife's assumption that your family is taboo and must be kept out of the house is too silly even to discuss. Not all in-laws are poison. Not all mothers-in-law are home-wreckers. No doubt there is an occasional mother who is jealous of her son's wife and a trouble-maker, but these are few and far between.

The average mother-in-law knows that her son's happiness depends upon his getting along amicably with his wife and thinking her a paragon, so she does nothing to disillusionize him. More than that, she knows that unless she can make friends with her daughter-in-law she loses her son, so she does everything to propitiate the young woman her son married.

If the wife is wise, she meets her mother-in-law halfway in establishing this mutual cordiality. For no one can be a better friend to the young wife than her husband's mother. If John's mother thinks that John's wife is all right, John thinks so, too. And if John's mother sides with John's wife in any family argument, the wife wins out.

Of course, it is nothing but jealousy that makes a wife want to separate her husband from his mother. She can't bear to think that there was some one he knew and loved before her, some one he still loves and depends on, some one who was a part of all his early life, and she would like to blot her out of his existence.

She forgets that this cannot be done, and that when she attempts to do it she does so at her peril. She forgets, also, that the man who can be weaned from the mother who bore him, who can return ingratitude for all the sacrifices she made

Experience, Training Soon Cure Children of Pilfering

BY ANGELO PATRI
Little things had been missing from lockers for a month or so. Somebody's sweater, a purse, a stop watch, sneakers, lunch money left in a coat pocket. Who in the world could it be? The janitor set a watch and found Walter, a nice-looking boy whom nobody would suspect of such a thing, in the act of taking money from a purse that had been left in a locker.

"I don't know why I did it; I just did it," he said.

What was best to do? Should he be exposed to the school? Should he be made to confess publicly that he had been the thief? Should he be handed over to the children's court? The teachers argued back and forth. Nobody wanted to hurt the boy, but he ought to be made an example of. Other children ought to be protected from association with him. Justice should be dealt him because he had broken the law. If he was not punished he would keep right on doing this. Nobody felt sure his decision was the right one, so it was agreed that his mother be sent for.

Nobody answered the doorbell. No answer came to repeated rings on the telephone. A special delivery letter was returned unclaimed. Walter said, "There's nobody home but me."

"Where is your mother?"

"I haven't any mother any more. She left us last year. And my father is working in another state.

Who took care of me? I take care of myself mostly, when grandmother can't stay. She had to go home last week and needed her. She's coming back."

This lad was lonely, friendless, homeless. He was wandering in this world, and naturally his mind wandered too, and this pilfering was the expression of the lack he felt. When one of his schoolmates took him home with him, things changed. The family liked him and arranged for him to stay with them until his father could get a home for him again. He was not really a thief. He was trying to find something he lacked. Pilfering by older school children often means just that, and nothing more.

Little children, under five, sometimes gather in other children's belongings such as crow's gather odds and ends and store them. They like to have a 'lot' of things. In-between children are likely to pilfer things because they really want them, or want what they will bring. It is the selfish pilfering that inexperienced children practice. Experience and training soon cure it.

But there is a pilfering that becomes premeditated stealing. This is done by the unusual sort of child who, by some twist of his nature, is set wrong. He needs the expert care and treatment that only a specialist can give. He is not a normal person as we know normal people. He will end in jail if we cannot cure him.

Happy children, healthy and busy, rarely pilfer habitually. If one makes a mistake, correct it; don't get into a panic about it. Look for the cause of his feeling of LACK. Maybe he needs affection, companionship, belongings. Study him; help him, and he will come through.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Beauty and You

—by PATRICIA LINDSAY

If anyone knew how to preserve hair, to keep it gloriously luxuriant and fluffy, until we were very old, that person would not only be the richest man alive but the most famous of our time!

For close to man's love of himself, is the love of his hair! Each one of us, during moments of vanity, wishes ardently that our hair had its pristine glory intact! And we go to all sorts of effort to try to regain its lost beauty.

Gradually science is getting down to the facts of hair nourishment and health. They know that hair beauty comes from an active out engraved announcements. But the circumstances of her first marriage had been so dramatically tragic that it granted a latitude in the preparations for her second marriage that was exceptional. At her father's deathbed she had for his peace of mind married the man whom he, against her will, had chosen for her. She was seventeen at the time, and her husband twice her age. The marriage ended in a few months. Two years later she married the man she had wanted to marry all along.

The Family at an Unwelcoming? Dear Mrs. Post: When a family pays for a window to be given to the church as a memorial for the father, must the members of this family be present at the time the window is uncovered? None of us want to go through this ordeal if we can help it.

Answer: They must choose some one to unveil the window and usually members of the family are present and one of them asked to do it. But I do not know of any reason other than their own feelings which would exact that they go if they prefer not to.

CHRISTMAS ADVICE There is still time to send for printed directions on marking cards and giving presents and other holiday problems. Cut this paragraph and send it with your self-addressed, stamped (3c) envelope to Mrs. Post in care of this paper.

What advice would you give to Diana? Do you believe she is too old to build up a new home and have children? This problem is becoming more frequent in modern life, for women of 40 are younger nowadays than they were in Lincoln's time.

CASE L-178: Diana Y., aged 41, is a widow who has recently married again.

"I have a daughter by my first husband," she began, "who is now a junior in the university. "My first marriage was ideally happy, but my husband died when I was 35. Since then I have lived

58 years of age. She had two grown daughters past 30 when the new baby arrived.

It is not at all unusual for a woman past 40, to conceive and bear healthy offspring.

As a matter of fact, it is often a wise thing for a woman to have babies late in her child bearing cycle, for they cushion the shock of her menopause by giving her somebody to care for, and by thus extroverting her attention from herself to the school and recreational problems of her children.

However, I always recommend two children, instead of one, for the single child is likely to be spoiled and develop into a selfish personality.

Belated Babies In this modern age, with labor saving machinery in the home and a more scientific diet than we used to have, women are not as old at 40 as they were a few generations ago.

In Lincoln's day, a woman past 40 was a grandmother in appearance and in fact. Today her children may be only in grammar school, and she will not be a grandmother till she is 50 or beyond.

With cosmetic aids, perfumes, and stylish clothes, a slender figure and a zestful interest in life, the woman of 40 is nowadays neither old nor even middle-aged.

The average age in America for needing false teeth is approximately 43. In England I understand it is only 25. In Lincoln's day it was probably around 25 in this country.

In the good old days of the horse and buggy, the animal's teeth were used as an index of the horse's vigor and vitality. Perhaps we should use them in a similar fashion regarding men and women today.

One-third of a cup of fruit juice added to each two cups of prepared mince meat enriches its flavor.

If linen is so badly scorched that the stain will not disappear, by the application of lemon juice and exposure to sunlight, try the following mixture: A cup of vinegar, half an ounce of soap, two ounces of fuller's earth and the juice of one lemon. Boil well, spread the solution and let it dry. Wash the linen and the stain will disappear.

The secret of frying fish crisp and brown, without either egg or bread crumbs, is to dry the fish well, sprinkle both sides with plenty of flour and plunge it into boiling fat. Be sure the fat is boiling and have plenty of it, as upon that depends the crispness and brownness.

The Army Post Murders

Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting the colonel's daughter on a mid-western Army post.

Charlie Spencer, my fiancé.

Adam Drew, one of the nicest men I know.

Yesterday: Adam is knocked out on the polo field. Elizabeth carries a gun in her car.

CHAPTER FIVE
"Feeling Humble"

"You are you sure you're not hurt?" I asked Adam.

"On the contrary, it hurts like the dickens, but I'll recover. I got out from under very neatly, but one hoof caught me in the midriff and knocked my breath into the middle of next week. I was conscious but numb when young Tarzan, here, snatched me up and swung off through the trees."

Everyone was suddenly helpless with laughter—everyone but Elizabeth.

"That's all very well," she said calmly. "But don't forget, you've promised to stop at the hospital for a thorough examination before you go home. For all you know you may have a broken rib."

Adam grimaced. "I've had spills before."

"Please," I said.

He looked at me very soberly for a moment, an odd, questioning look in his brilliant eyes.

"Of course," he said gently. "But I won't stay home from the party tonight if I have to come in a wheel chair. And if anyone makes a crack about Adam's rib..."

The game had been abandoned, the horses led away. Somewhere close at hand a bugle broke into urgent summons. Faces turned to regard the flag that floated high over headquarters.

Adam released my arm, settled his helmet and stood at salute.

Across the field the cannon crashed and the band struck up the first measured bars of the national anthem. Gracefully, slowly, the flag dipped earthward, tugging reluctantly at its ropes, floated and dipped again, lower and lower, caught at last by many hands and furled before it could touch the ground. Across the lengthening shadows on the plain the last notes of music died away.

"And so goodbye — until later," said Adam.

"Not yet," reminded Elizabeth. "We're going to drop you at the hospital."

We did. Adam submitted gracefully, even saluting us gallily from the door before he disappeared inside. Then, and not until then, did Elizabeth drive on.

She delivered me at the house, gently ordered me to rest and departed again in her little car, murmuring something about sewing and a sergeant's wife.

I wandered into the house, found the colonel's den, shabby and filled with books. I inspected the shelves, hoping to find something distracting.

There was a well-worn set of Dickens; a shelf of biography; a shelf devoted to heavy tomes on military history, science and tactics; and a stack of decorative volumes that caught my immediate interest. Howitzers, the West Point yearbooks.

Titian O. A. O.

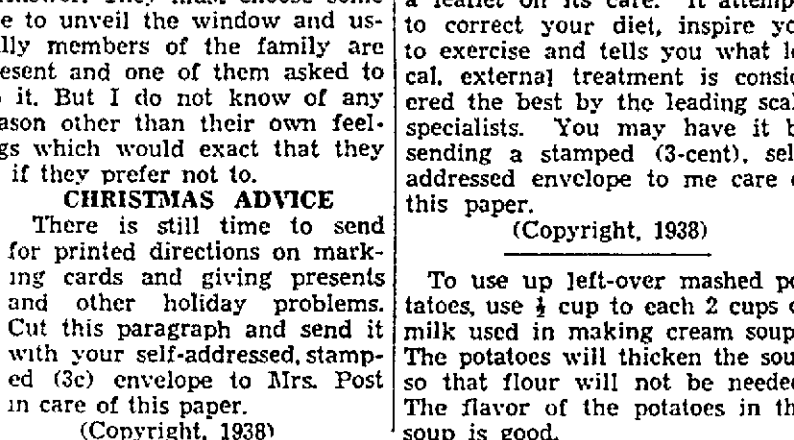

I drew out the top one—it was three or four years old — and carried it to the Colonel's chair.

It fell open with the obedience of a book often spread at the same page, and I found myself staring at the face of Barney Nelson.

He had not changed that I could see. The same rather withdrawn eyes, the immaculately modeled features that made him almost too handsome.

Below the picture was a brief biography. I read it with interest. His name was not Barney, but Bjorne, and his nicknames were many: Swede, Handsome, Barney, Julian. This last was too obscure for me until I glanced at a snapshot in the lower corner of the page. At first sight it was a beautiful, stately blonde in floating draperies and a picture hat. Then

What advice would you give to Diana? Do you believe she is too old to build up a new home and have children? This problem is becoming more frequent in modern life, for women of 40 are younger nowadays than they were in Lincoln's time.

CASE L-178: Diana Y., aged 41, is a widow who has recently married again.

"I have a daughter by my first husband," she began, "who is now a junior in the university. "My first marriage was ideally happy, but my husband died when I was 35. Since then I have lived

58 years of age. She had two grown daughters past 30 when the new baby arrived.

It is not at all unusual for a woman past 40, to conceive and bear healthy offspring.

As a matter of fact, it is often a wise thing for a woman to have babies late in her child bearing cycle, for they cushion the shock of her menopause by giving her somebody to care for, and by thus extroverting her attention from herself to the school and recreational problems of her children.

However, I always recommend two children, instead of one, for the single child is likely to be spoiled and develop into a selfish personality.

Belated Babies In this modern age, with labor saving machinery in the home and a more scientific diet than we used to have, women are not as old at 40 as they were a few generations ago.

In Lincoln's day, a woman past 40 was a grandmother in appearance and in fact. Today her children may be only in grammar school, and she will not be a grandmother till she is 50 or beyond.

With cosmetic aids, perfumes, and stylish clothes, a slender figure and a zestful interest in life, the woman of 40 is nowadays neither old nor even middle-aged.

The average age in America for needing false teeth is approximately 43. In England I understand it is only 25. In Lincoln's day it was probably around 25 in this country.

In the good old days of the horse and buggy, the animal's teeth were used as an index of the horse's vigor and vitality. Perhaps we should use them in a similar fashion regarding men and women today.

Second Families A healthy woman can safely bear

My Neighbor Says—

Sponge the foliage of your house plants with a soap solution. Scrub green scum off plants and pots.

One-third of a cup of fruit juice added to each two cups of prepared mince meat enriches its flavor.

If linen is so badly scorched that the stain will not disappear, by the application of lemon juice and exposure to sunlight, try the following mixture: A cup of vinegar, half an ounce of soap, two ounces of fuller's earth and the juice of one lemon. Boil well, spread the solution and let it dry. Wash the linen and the stain will disappear.

The secret of frying fish crisp and brown, without either egg or bread crumbs, is to dry the fish well, sprinkle both sides with plenty of flour and plunge it into boiling fat. Be sure the fat is boiling and have plenty of it, as upon that depends the crispness and brownness.

A large sponge such as that used in washing a car is excellent for washing woodwork, as it drips so much less than a cloth.

The Army Post Murders

By Virginia Hanson

Katherine Cornish, myself, visiting the colonel's daughter on a mid-western Army post.

Charlie Spencer, my fiancé.

Adam Drew, one of the nicest men I know.

Yesterday: Adam is knocked out on the polo field. Elizabeth carries a gun in her car.

CHAPTER FIVE
"Feeling Humble"

"You are you sure you're not hurt?" I asked Adam.

"On the contrary, it hurts like the dickens, but I'll recover. I got out from under very neatly, but one hoof caught me in the midriff and knocked my breath into the middle of next week. I was conscious but numb when young Tarzan, here, snatched me up and swung off through the trees."

Everyone was suddenly helpless with laughter—everyone but Elizabeth.

"That's all very well," she said calmly. "But don't forget, you've promised to stop at the hospital for a thorough examination before you go home. For all you know you may have a broken rib."

Adam grimaced. "I've had spills before."

"Please," I said.

He looked at me very soberly for a moment, an odd, questioning look in his brilliant eyes.

"Of course," he said gently. "But I won't stay home from the party tonight if I have to come in a wheel chair. And if anyone makes a crack about Adam's rib..."

The game had been abandoned, the horses led away. Somewhere close at hand a bugle broke into urgent summons. Faces turned to regard the flag that floated high over headquarters.

Adam released my arm, settled his helmet and stood at salute.

Across the field the cannon crashed and the band struck up the first measured bars of the national anthem. Gracefully, slowly, the flag dipped earthward, tugging reluctantly at its ropes, floated and dipped again, lower and lower, caught at last by many hands and furled before it could touch the ground. Across the lengthening shadows on the plain the last notes of music died away.

"And so goodbye — until later," said Adam.

"Not yet," reminded Elizabeth. "We're going to drop you at the hospital."

We did. Adam submitted gracefully, even saluting us gallily from the door before he disappeared inside. Then, and not until then, did Elizabeth drive on.

She delivered me at the house, gently ordered me to rest and departed again in her little car, murmuring something about sewing and a sergeant's wife.

I wandered into the house, found the colonel's den, shabby and filled with books. I inspected the shelves, hoping to find something distracting.

There was a well-worn set of Dickens; a shelf of biography; a shelf devoted to heavy tomes on military history, science and tactics; and a stack of decorative volumes that caught my immediate interest. Howitzers, the West Point yearbooks.

Titian O. A. O.

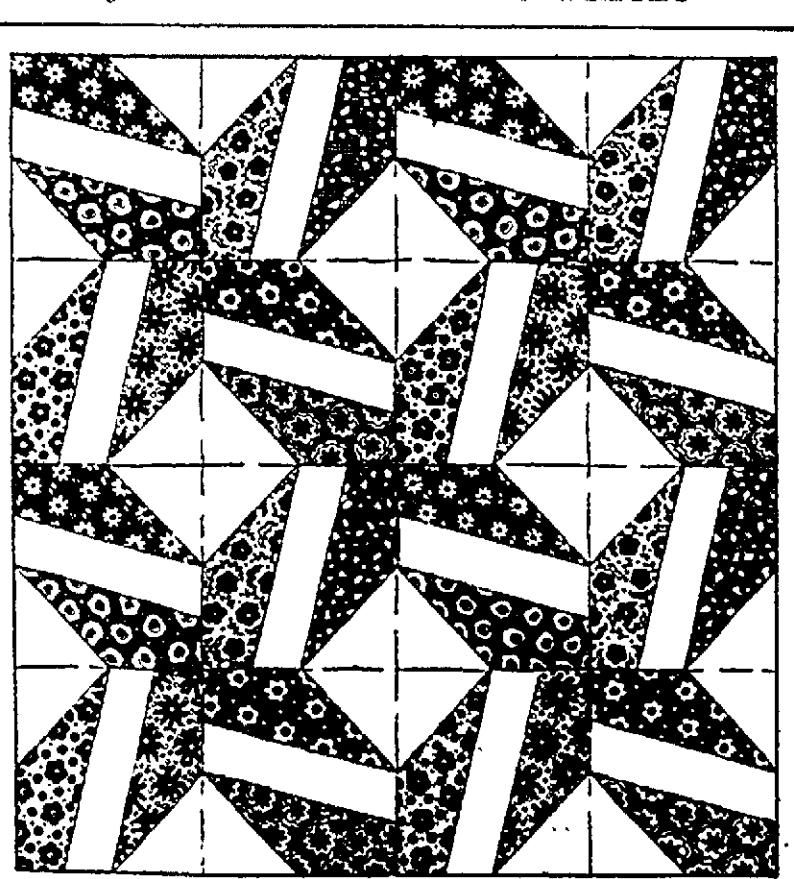

I drew out the top one—it was three or four years old — and carried it to the Colonel's chair.

It fell open with the obedience of a book often spread at the same page, and I found myself staring at the face of Barney Nelson.

He had not changed that I could see. The same rather withdrawn eyes, the immaculately modeled features that made him almost too handsome.

Below the picture was a brief biography. I read it with interest. His name was not Barney, but Bjorne, and his nicknames were many: Swede, Handsome, Barney, Julian. This last was too obscure for me until I glanced at a snapshot in the lower corner of the page. At first sight it was a beautiful, stately blonde in floating draperies and a picture hat. Then

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER Saturday Talk

The other day an old friend from East Orange, N. J., came to pay me a visit. We talked for perhaps an hour, and most of that time we spoke about a dog.

"The dog is named Pepper," she said, "and is being trained by Mrs. A. O. Laube, who now lives in New York City. It is a wonder dog, and a person who has not watched could hardly believe what it does. It can count money. It can tell the number of windows in an office building. It can look at pictures of movie stars, and tell their names."

"How does it do those things?" I asked.

"By tapping in a code which Mrs. Laube has taught it."

I told my visitor that I certainly would like to see that dog in action, and on my next visit to New York I intend to do so. I also said I should like to have a letter from Mrs. Laube.

The letter has just come to hand. It is a long one, and I cannot give it all, but here are a few paragraphs:

"I am teaching Pepper, and plan to show him at the world's fair in New York. Pepper knows how many days there are in a year. He can tell time by looking at a clock. He knows how many hours, there are in a day, and how many minutes in an hour.

"He can give the names of many flowers and animals. He knows and names all the main colors. He can spell out the name of the president of the United States.

"He knows who discovered America, and in what year. He can add numbers, and can multiply them.

"Pepper also knows money. If we show him some dollar bills, quarters, dimes and cents, he will tell how many cents they make altogether."

Other animals have learned to spell out simple words by putting letter-blocks together, and some have learned to tap out answers to simple arithmetic problems.

However, if there is a dog which can do all the things listed for Pepper, it must be the smartest animal in the world today. It may be several months before I can see Pepper, but when I do I shall tell you what I find out by watching him.

If dogs had voices like those of human beings, what things they might have to tell us! It may be that they know far more than most of us suppose.

Class D Baseball Will Be Discussed Sunday

Organization Meeting Is Scheduled at Conway Hotel at 1 P. M. BAETZ TO PRESIDE

Appleton Expected to Join if Circuit Becomes Reality

CLASS D baseball, which has come up for discussion in the Fox river valley every so often for three or four years, again will be the subject when baseball men from the state gather at the Conway hotel here starting at noon tomorrow. C. O. Baetz, Appleton, who was president of the Wisconsin State League for many years, will preside at the meeting. The meeting will be called to order at 1 o'clock.

Lack of a baseball park with lights has been the bug bear in several cities during the last couple years, Appleton being among them. It probably will be a problem again this trip although several towns now feel they can go into the thing despite lack of playing facilities at the moment.

Appleton Interested. During the last week Appleton men have been contacted on the question and several business leaders have expressed the thought of organization of a corporation to handle the club will be a rather simple matter.

The question of a park with lights was discussed with representatives of the common council at a meeting Wednesday afternoon, and while there was a lot left to be done when the session closed, the committee gave the group to understanding that if Class D baseball had arrived Appleton would be willing to do everything it could to get the park in playing condition.

Appleton will be represented at the meeting by Ben Pfeiffer, Dave Smith, Harry Sylvester, W. H. Ryan and Gordon McIntyre. However, an invitation has been extended to anyone in Appleton interested in the possibility of a Class D league.

Harry Smith, representing Joe Carr, Columbus, O., promotional director of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, has been through the state on several occasions sounding out feeling. He will be present Sunday.

Several Cities Ready. Reports from various cities indicate they are ready to start Class D teams and are awaiting only organization of a league. Sheboygan has everything to change from the present type of Saturday and Sunday ball to Class D. Madison is awaiting only definite word on the new league and a similar situation exists in Wisconsin Rapids which hasn't had much baseball of late.

LaCrosse is reported ready to back a team and Fond du Lac is reported to have a new field and needs only lights. Oshkosh could use the fair grounds if lighted and is awaiting further action on organization of a league. Green Bay has lights and a plant and several times has declared itself "set."

Manitowish has expressed interest in Class D ball but nothing definite has come out of the lake shore city. Clintonville has been approached as have Menasha, Racine and Kenosha.

Two other teams considered in the league are Wausau and Eau Claire which now are playing Class D ball in the Northern League. However, neither will be possible until the Northern League permits them to withdraw and in the meantime no other league can kick in with them.

Little Chute A. A. Wallops Kaw Cagers. Little Chute—the newly organized Kaukauna DX cage squad managed by Stan Beguhn was given a rude welcome by the Little Chute A. A. squad at St. John gym Thursday night when the A. A.'s won 55 to 22. They led 22 to 8 at the half.

Beany Bongers paced the A. A. squad with 10 field goals while Koehne of the DX team had seven field goals.

The box score: Kaukauna DX, 22; Little Chute A. A., 55. Koehne, 10; Bongers, 7; Elting, 1; Widenberg, 2; Boote, 2; Bongers, 2; Vanover, 1; Widenberg, 1; VanAbel, 1; O'Deers, 1; Peterson, 1.

WHEN Appleton Chamber of Commerce tosses its biggest football banquet with Lawrence college's Midwest champions and the high school eleven as the principal guests next Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple, there'll be a reunion of former Lawrence football greats such as never before in the history of the college.

Several former Lawrenceites have picked a list of the most outstanding gridirers over the last 40 years and invitations to attend the banquet have been extended. And a goodly number of the invitations have brought letters and many more statements that the former greats will be present.

J. W. Lawlor steamed a 238 game and R. Joyce pumped a 616 series to share individual honors during Eastern League matches at Elks alleys last night. High team marks were registered by Yale with a 924 game and Harvard with a 2,704 series.

Pennsylvania's league lead was narrowed when Harvard won the odd game from the pace setters. Scheil kegged 216 and 578 to top Harvard while Harrington had 533 and Blyth showed 204 for the losers.

Three games went to Yale in a tilt with Pittsburg. R. LaRose paced the winners with games of 203 and 212 for a 565 series and Henderson added a 208 game. Joyce was the mainstay for the losers with games of 209 and 223 for his big total.

Win Three Games. Notre Dame grand slammed Princeton as John Balliet pounded a 561 series and 208 game. W. Feavel topped the losers with a 547 total.

Navy won the odd game from Columbia as L. Feavel grooved a 209 game and 551 series and N. Bloomer shot 202. Woelz bowled 204 and Lawlor crashed 582 for the losing five.

Kimberly Downs St. John, 20-14, In Tight Battle

Little Chute Defense Folds in Final Quarter of Tilt. Little Chute—After a nip and tuck battle for three quarters, St. John High school cagers went down to defeat in the last five minutes as Kimberly had but a 1-point lead at that time in a game here last night. The tough break for St. John came when when Duce Weyenberg received his fourth personal foul after playing a stellar game at left guard.

Up to then, the Dutchmen were constantly threatening. The second quarter ended 12 to 10 as St. John outscored its opponents 6 points to 2. The third quarter had St. John holding Kimberly to a lone point but the Dutchmen offense failed to click and gained but 2 points, trailing 12 to 12 as the third quarter ended.

The final period was a fast and furious affair with the crowd holding the edge of their chairs as both teams tried desperately to score. Play became rough with Van Boogart, Papermaker stellar guard being ejected. With about four minutes left to play and the score in Kimberly's favor, 15 to 14, St. John defense cracked after Weyenberg led the game and the Dutchmen were constantly threatening.

The game was enlivened by sideline referees and Unser, the official, tagged the rabid Kimberly fans with a technical foul in the third quarter.

Benny Weyenberg led the Papermakers on offense with three field goals and Fieweger got two goals and a charity shot. Vanden Boogart played a good floor game, showing ball handling ability.

The showing of St. John was gratifying as practically a new team has to be molded. In the preliminary, the Papermakers seconds defeated the Dutchmen reserves, 12 to 10, with the score deadlocked at 10-all and a half minute left to play, Gaffney took a try at the hoop and his aim was good to give his mates a victory.

Gaffney made six of his teams twelve points. The box scores: Kimberly G. T. P. St. John G. T. P. Alice Marble Will Try Night Club Singing. New York—(U)—Alice Marble gave out the news today that she'd blossom out next week as a night club singer and that, said she, makes her the first women's tennis champion to become a professional singer.

But she isn't going to let her singing interfere with her career. The United States Lawn Tennis association, it seems, has bestowed its blessing on her vocal ambitions, and she still has her eye on Wimbledon and Forest Hills next year.

Alice says she's taking up singing because "you've got to earn a living."

Don Lash Prepares to Seek A. A. U. Cross Country Crown. LOOMINGTON, IND.—(U)—Don Lash, who chases criminals for a living now, headed east today with the definite intention of again becoming the pursued instead of the pursuer.

He laid aside his gun and trim blue Indiana state policeman's uniform, packed his bag with the familiar spiked running shoes, shorts and racing shirt, and started for Newark, N. J., where Sunday he will try for his fifth consecutive national A. A. U. cross-country running title.

The race will be Don's first competition since he joined the state police force after winning recognition as America's best two-mile and five-mile runner.

Packers Seeking Marquette Grid For Title Battle. MILWAUKEE—The Green Bay Packers versus the Detroit Lions at the Marquette stadium for the western half title of the National Professional Football league.

That's the gridiron tid-bit that is more than a mere possibility for Milwaukee and Wisconsin followers of the Packers on Dec. 11.

If the Lions defeat the Philadelphia Eagles on Dec. 4 they will tie the Packers for the crown and a playoff game will be necessary in order to select the western representative for the title conflict against the eastern half champions.

Friday it was announced in Detroit that the playoff game, if one is necessary, would be played in Briggs Stadium, Detroit, but Lee Johannes, president of the Packer Corporation, and Coach Curly Lambeau immediately issued denials, claiming the Green Bay club had an equal vote in the matter and that it would not agree to playing the game in Detroit. Both favor a neutral field.

Contact M. U. Officials. Although the Packers annually play two of their "home" games in Milwaukee this city is regarded as "neutral" territory and would be the logical site for the game considering the "crowd appeal" the Packer and Lions have here.

Packer officials are sure the playoff game in Milwaukee would draw better than in any other neutral city.

Packer officials were in contact Friday with Marquette university athletic board officials relative to obtaining the Hilltop stadium for the game. They found sentiment of some members quite favorable.

Coach Lambeau will appear before the board at its next meeting on Tuesday at which time definite announcement as to the availability of the stadium will be made.

Packers Will Rest. Contrary to other announcements, the Packers will not play any non-league opponents between now and the playoff games. Coach Lambeau said Friday the club is just recuperating from a long series of injuries and he thought the rest would do the players much good. He fears additional injuries on frozen ground and explained that uncertain weather conditions throughout the country argues against booking games even in the "sunny" south, which is experiencing snow, sleet and weather colder than this here.

Revolta, Ben Hogan Lead at Open Tourney. Columbia, S. C.—(U)—An old-timer, Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and a newcomer to the pro ranks, 26-year-old Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Neenah Defeats Kaws, 27 to 20

MEETS ZWICK. Armando Scilla, above, will tangle with Phil Zwick, Kaukauna product, in the 10-round windup bout of a professional boxing show to be staged at Columbus hall in Green Bay Monday night.

Scilla is considered a crack featherweight championship contender in the east. A delegation of about 350 Kaukauna persons are expected to be on hand for the scrap.

Losers Show Well in 1st League Game; Lead 12-10 at Half. BY BILL DOWLING. KAUKAUNA—A surprising Kaukauna five that held a 12 to 10 margin at halftime succumbed to a third period Neenah rally last night as the two teams opened Northeastern conference play, the Red Rocks going home on the long end of a 27 to 20 count.

With three players starting their first game the Kaws clicked early, at one time being out in front 10 to 2, but the veteran Rocket quint pulled itself together and outstepped the Kaws to win.

Warren Ketterling led the visitors from his guard spot playing a brilliant floor game, with three baskets and a gift shot before going out on fouls with three minutes to play. Lanky Bill Alger paced the losers with four buckets and two free throws.

Kaukauna had five points before Dan Schmidt dropped in two charity tosses to put Neenah in the point column. Joe Bloch tossed one in from the side and Alger potted a short shot and sank a free throw as he was fouled by Hackstock. The Kaws then doubled their score as Swedberg bagged a free throw, Alger's corner fling was good and Bloch netted a setup. Neenah brought their count to 8, with Ketterling dropping one from the free throw line, Buck Ketterling sinking a free throw, and Warren coming back to dribble in for a bucket, and adding a point when he was fouled. Alger batted in a rebound for Kaukauna and Buck Ketterling's long try was good to make it 12 to 10 at the half.

Before the Kaws could count in the third period Neenah had taken the lead at 17 to 12. Hesselman dribbled in for a bucket, Schmidt's hook from outside the circle connected and Warren Ketterling's did the same. Ketterling made it 17, dropping in a free throw, when fouled by Belsch's free throw gave the Kaws 13.

Neenah Leads, 19-15. Hesselman's rebound for Neenah was matched by Alger's, and Neenah led 19 and 15. Leo Peterson then made his only bucket of the game from close in, and Junior Swedberg bagged his from far out to make it 21 to 17 as the last period began.

The Rockets ran their count to 26 before Kaukauna could score again. Buck Ketterling hooked a bucket from the side, Hesselman dropped in a free throw, and then Buck dribbled in for another. Belsch's short bucket gave the Kaws 19, with Hesselman making a free throw for Neenah's last point. Alger's free throw brought the Kaws to 20 in the final five seconds.

Both teams were off in their free throwing, the Rockets making but 7 of 16 and the Kaws only 4 of 14.

Neenah—27; Kaukauna—20. Hackstock, 3; Belsch, 2; E. Ketterling, 3; T. Peterson, 1; J. Peterson, 1; Schmidt, 1; W. Ketterling, 1; Hesselman, 2; Swedberg, 1; Jordan, 0; Totals 20 7 12; Totals 26 4 13.

Armstrong in 15-Round Win

Practically Knocks the Daylights Out of Ceferino Garcia

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—(U)—Henry Armstrong is not, of course, a real person. Historians will know that the little Negro was a legendary character, made up by some Orson Welles of the fight racket as a rival attraction to the man from Mars.

Come to think of it, they should have held on to one of those inter-planetary invaders long enough to get him in the same ring with Henry. It would be interesting to see if a genuine death-ray would have any real effect upon the tough little guy who holds the lightweight and welterweight titles.

Ceferino Garcia, whose "bolo" punch was supposed to strike men speechless, lifted Henry clear off his feet with several terrific belts in the Garden last night, but all it got the husky Filipino was a beating he will remember long after he has returned to the cane fields.

Wins Nine Rounds
Armstrong, who at 134 pounds looked like a wisp before his 146½ pound rival, practically knocked the daylights out of Garcia. He won nine of the fifteen rounds by wide margins and lost only five, one of which was taken away from him by Referee Arthur Donovan because of a low blow.

Now that that's settled, there remains only one opponent in sight, and that is Lou Ambers, from whom Henry won the lightweight crown some months ago. They will go at it again at the Garden in February or March, probably for the welterweight title.

Almost 16,000 fans braved icy pavements to watch Henry turn back Garcia's challenge last night, and they probably got their $80,000 worth. It was a hard, bloody fight every minute of the way. The decision was unanimous, and even Garcia's dressing room protests that he deserved the duke were feeble.

At that, he looked a little better than Armstrong today. Henry's left eye was closed tighter than a two-bit drum from a furious right that popped him just before the end of the 14th round. The Filipino was deeply gashed over both eyes and his hands were swollen. Armstrong's mouth was bruised and cut.

Henry Uses Everything
As he said he would, Armstrong closed in on the bigger fellow and made life miserable for him. The dusky David didn't have a slingshot handy, but he used everything else in the book, including his head, shoulders and elbows. His tactics drew scattered boos, but the general feeling seemed to be that he had conceded so much weight he had a right to employ a few extra weapons.

Several times Garcia landed his swishing right uppercut squarely on Armstrong's jaw, and at least three times he staggered Henry and had him holding on. For an instant in the twelfth it looked like the champion would go down. But each time Armstrong fought his way out of trouble and was pouring leather to Garcia before the round closed.

"He wasn't as strong as Ambers and not nearly so smart," said Henry, later. "He only hurt me once, really, and that was on a sneak punch when I thought the referee had broken us up."

Oh, yes, Henry revealed that he had been suffering from a cold since Monday and didn't really feel light fighting last night.

Expect 105,000 At Prep Grid Tilt

Mt. Carmel and Fenger to Clash for Chicago Title, Charity

Chicago—(U)—Prep football was king here today, with two high school teams drawing the nation's largest gridiron crowd of 1938—upwards of 105,000 persons—into huge sold-out field.

Mt. Carmel, winner of the Catholic league title, and Fenger, which won the public school crown, battle for the city championship—literally pouring a golden fortune into Mayor Edward J. Kelly's Christmas benefit fund which will provide clothing and shoes for 75,000 needy children.

The colorful spectacle, with favorable weather, may produce an all-time football crowd record. Last year, with Bill De Correvont pulling fans through the turnstiles, a throng estimated at from 115,000 to 120,000 paid $103,000 to see Austin De Correvont, who scored 21 points in 10 games, now is a freshman at Northwestern University.

Today's battle, fifth in a series which has raised $310,000 for charity, will have a Northwestern-Notre Dame rivalry flavor. Wally Fromhart, Notre Dame star, coaches Mt. Carmel, while Fenger's mentor is Chuck Palmer, former Northwestern backfield ace.

Clark Griffith Ready to Sell a Cargo of Players

WASHINGTON—(U)—Clark Griffith won't admit it, but the early winter word is that the president of the Washington Senators will haul a cargo of baseball-trading material to the American league meeting next month.

The only thing the old fox will admit outright about baseball is that Walter Johnson was its best pitcher, but these players might figure in winter trading:

Cecil Travis, one of the game's 300-hitting shortstops.

Al Simmons, outfielder, who hit 300 last year.

Zeke Bonura, the fence-busting first baseman.

Sammy West, the aging outfielder who can still go get them.

The entire Washington pitching staff with the possible exception of left-handed Joseph Victor Lawrence.

Krakauskas, the slow-talking Canadian with the fast ball.

Germans Should Know Better So Nazi Horror Seems Worse

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—Some Americans are beginning to ask why the Nazi atrocities should cause any more horror in the civilized nations than was caused by the massacres and deportations and the suppression of religion in Soviet Russia and by the butchering of priests and nuns, the burning of churches and the persecution of Catholics in Spain. The oppression of Catholics in Mexico is cited, too, in the same sense.

In a way the feeling about the horror in Germany is a compliment to the Germans. They had been regarded as a highly civilized people, and the regime which is doing all this constantly boasts of its civilization.

Russia, on the other hand, was a very backward nation from which the rest of the world expected nothing better. The masses were beastly ignorant and verminous, and it cannot be forgotten that the revolution and the program of atrocity came abruptly after Russian soldiers had been sent into battle without bullets for their rifles against well-armed German troops.

They had been sold out by conscienceless greifers and naturally were furious, but of first importance is the fact that they were a low-grade people. The Germans, in their superiority, regarded them as cattle.

In Spain the people were ignorant, too, but there were other factors. For one, the masses, to quote an eminent Catholic publicist, had been driven to apostasy by poverty, destitution and injustice and had grown to hate the church because they hated the friends of the church who exploited them and whom the church did nothing to rebuke or correct. Moreover, a civil war in Spain was promoted and backed by fascist Italy and Nazi Germany.

There were atrocities just as horrible on the rebel side, and, anyway, this was a war in hot blood between two armed factions which, being a civil war, inevitably produced appalling inhumanity on both sides.

As to Mexico, our general public has not much information. Perhaps our press deserves censure for failing to give the situation greater play, although, as one who has worked a long time in the business, both for a big press association and for newspapers, I can say that the instinctive sense of news values and no ulterior reason governed that. But Mexico is another country of mass ignorance, and the Germans would resent being compared with the masses of Mexico in this respect.

Their Threats Sound Like Darkest Russia
In Germany the people are intelligent, the standard of education is high and there is no excuse of hot blood. Yet the Germans have carried on these ferocious activities for years and now have come to the point of threatening to extinguish 700,000 people "by fire and sword" in cold blood. That sounds like darkest Russia or Turkey.

Our communists, of course, will deny that there were ever any massacres or other atrocities in Russia and will argue that the confiscation of property and the imprisonment, degradation and deportation of those who owned it was a work of nobility on the ground that the property belonged to the people and was then devoted to their use.

Communism and nazism are alike in this respect, however. The nazis claim that the property of the Jews really belongs to the people, and they will not throw it up for grabs or slip it to favored individuals but will use it for the purposes of their government, which was driven to

Fairly Steady on Market at Chicago

Selling of December Wheat Forces Contract Down Fractionally

Chicago—(P)—Although selling of December wheat today forced the price of that contract down fractionally to the lowest point in six years, other deliveries were steady by purchasing of traders who switched accounts into options which run into the middle of 1939. The result was a fairly steady market.

Elevator interests, on the other hand, were understood to be taking some December wheat which sold at 23 cents under the contract. Receipts were: wheat 34 cars, corn 74, oats 14.

Wheat closed 1/8 off to 1/16 higher compared with yesterday's high, Dec. 6 1/4-1/8, May 6 1/4-1/8, and corn was unchanged to 1/16 higher, Dec. 4 7/8-1/8, May 5 1/4-1/8. Oats gained 1-1/16.

New York—(P)—A generally tired stock market was hit by a late selling wave in today's brief session and leading issues dropped fractions to more than two points. Transfers were around 700,000 shares.

Steels, motors, coppers and rubbers bore the brunt of the assault.

Satisfactory domestic business news apparently still was competing with offsetting influences of year-end adjustments and a somewhat cloudier outlook abroad.

Gold mining stocks were resistant on word Homestake would disburse its annual Christmas bonus of $100 to each of its 2,000 regular employees. A $50 bonus was paid last July. Wall street interpreted this as meaning the major gold producers are maintaining earnings. Homestake stock was up about a point at the best and McIntyre, Dome and Alaska Juneau were supported.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler and General Motors were especially soft although steel mill operations next week were expected to hold rather well and the current high rate of automotive output was looked for throughout January at least.

Find It Pays to Keep Her Pigs Out of Mire

Paradise, La.—(P)—Mrs. Margaret G. Smith treats her pigs like a bunch of duds and never lets them wallow in the mud. She says there is money in the idea.

Her 840-acre hog farm is planted in Bermuda grass and white clover. The pigs are vaccinated against contagious disease and given an oil shampoo to discourage parasites and mosquitoes, every three months.

The pens have concrete floors with plenty of drinking water. To foil the pigs' admitted yen for wallowing, even the rain puddles are carefully swept away.

The reason for all the cleanliness, says Mrs. Smith, is that buyers believe, through experience, that outer filth communicates an undesirable flavor to the meat.

Buyers recently gave her a premium of a quarter of a cent a pound on her pigs and saved her about another cent per pound on transportation, inspection, weighing, feed and sales commissions.

SCARED RABBIT

Paris—(P)—"Scared rabbit" fur is a zebra dyed skin Vera Borean uses. It looks like black and white zebra, and at the same time strongly resembles the timid bunny. On a suit of rough black wool material, it makes the revers, pockets and buttons. On a black wool ensemble it fashions waist - long revers for the coat and deep cuffs for the dress. The coat sleeves are slightly short, showing the "zebra" dress cuffs.

Wiley, aged 69, is the youngest son of the Pioneer Andrew Elton Williams, who reared a family of 22 children. Each of the 22 children—save one who was killed by lightning—had families of eight to 18 children.

Adult Homemaking Class to be Formed At Seymour School

Seymour—An adult class in homemaking will be organized at Seymour High school at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. This class will be open to all adult homemakers in this community. A series of nine lessons will follow on the subject elected by the class. The class will meet one evening each week in the Homemaking department of the Seymour High school. All women interested are urged to attend the first meeting.

Max Strehlow, prominent Green Bay attorney, will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the Seymour Women's club at 7:30 Monday evening in the high school auditorium. Mr. Strehlow will speak on "The Constitution of the United States." He has made a special study of this subject. Husbands of the members and the general public are invited to this meeting.

Plan to Draw Lots to Decide Election Race

Milwaukee—(P)—Arthur J. Balzer, Democratic incumbent, and William Luebbe, Jr., Progressive, will draw lots at 2 p. m. Monday to determine who will represent the Third Milwaukee assembly district in the 1939 legislature.

Completion of a recount yesterday left them tied with 5,755 votes each.

Lloyd R. Haberman, acting secretary of the county election commission, said both Balzer and Luebbe told him that regardless of the outcome of the draw, the case would be appealed to circuit court. The count on 25 ballots is in dispute and the court will be asked to decide the intent of the voter on each of these ballots.

Police said they had no clue as to who was responsible.

Electrolux Will Be Gift Lasting For Many Seasons

Appleton Appliance Co. Also Offers Universal Gas Ranges

A purchase as important as a refrigerator can well become the household Christmas present, one which every member of the family will enjoy not only at the present time but all during the years. Therefore, it is wise to accept this Christmas suggestion now as a timely reminder to look over the stock on hand now at the Appleton Appliance Company at 219 N. Story street. The Servel Electrolux refrigerator, offered by this firm, boasts many fine money-saving features. Anyone who is interested in purchasing a refrigerator should, according to this firm, investigate thoroughly the many advantages of the Electrolux.

Permanently silent because there are no moving parts in the freezing system, the Servel Electrolux saves on operating costs, upkeep, and food protection. Owners show that operating costs never exceed a few cents per day. Upkeep costs are low because there are no moving parts in the freezing system to wear and require attention. A great saving on food is realized because there is always a safe degree of cold in the Electrolux food compartments with the freezing system operating continuously, assuring constant protection of food at all times.

The beautiful Servel Electrolux refrigerator may be operated with either bottled gas, city gas, or kerosene. There are six different models which range from the small apartment size to the family refrigerator requirement. Liberal purchasing arrangements are made by the Appleton Appliance Company to enable buyers to secure the Servel Electrolux refrigerator for Christmas without any undue strain on the family's Christmas budget. Offered now is a Christmas layaway plan, requiring a small down payment with no carrying charge. Further explanation of the layaway plan will be given at the Appleton Appliance headquarters without obligation.

Distribute Shellane

Suitable, too, as an ideal Christmas gift for the home is the modern Universal gas range, offered by the Appleton Appliance Company. This modern gas range is the finest cooking appliance the world of science has so far developed, the Appleton Appliance Company maintains.

This company, operated by N. J. Lossekyong, owner, with Kenneth R. Mokros, sales manager, offers the Servel Electrolux refrigerator and the Universal gas range appliances and are exclusive local distributors of the famous Shellane bottled gas service. The firm maintains a constant supply of the Shellane bottled gas for users and installs fuel cylinders wherever needed. The phone number is 3296-M if you wish to call for an appointment with the sales manager.

Winter Brings 3 Extra Dangers to Every Motorist

Employers Mutuals Shows Way to Obtain Safety, Protection

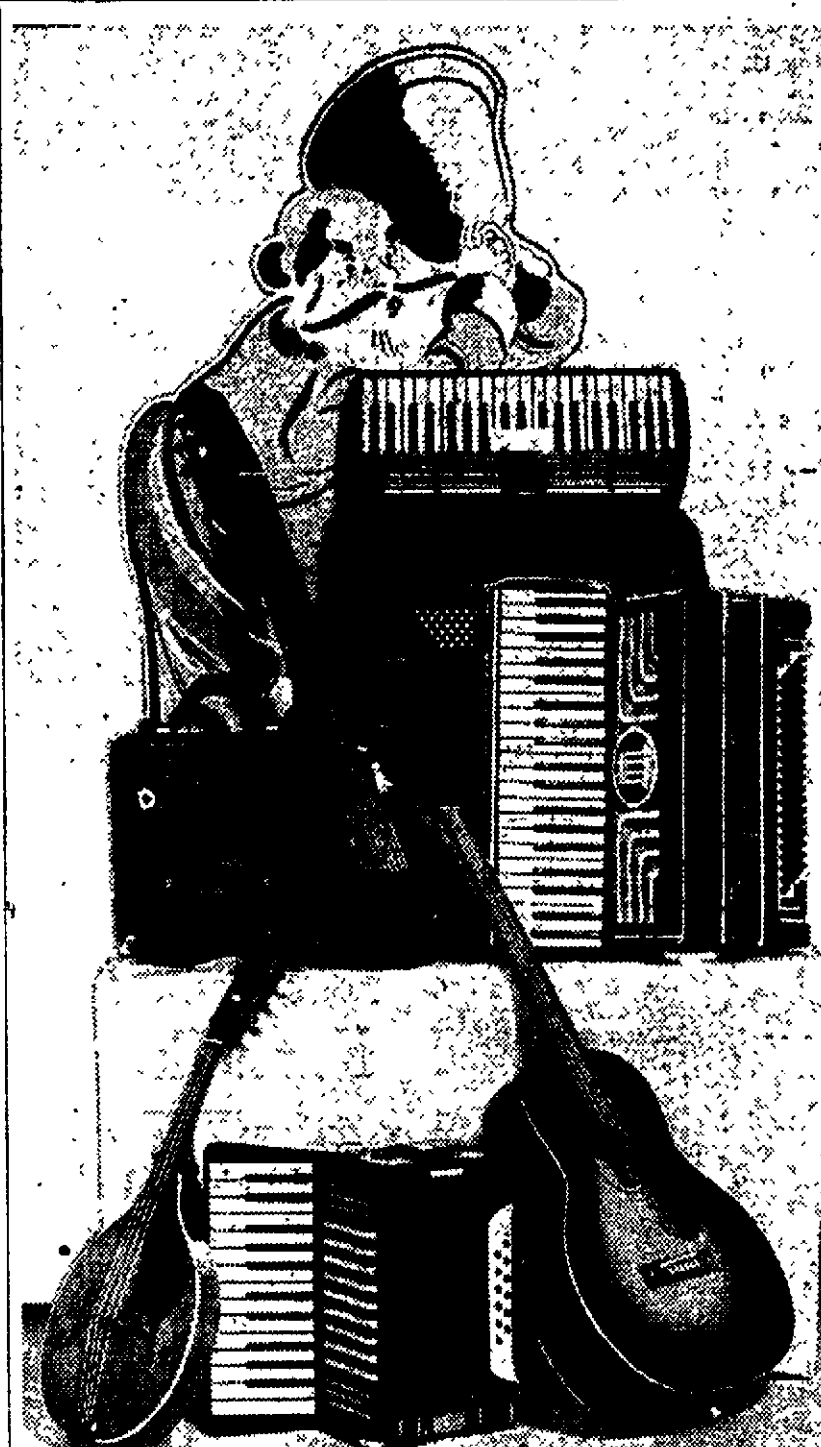

Three of the greatest dangers to motorists in the season now with us are slippery streets and highways, reduced visibility, and carbon monoxide. These, points out Employers Mutuals, Zuelke building, are factors which every person who drives a car should take into consideration and guard against.

The driver, of course, is helpless to alter slippery streets and poor visibility — except to drive more slowly and carefully — but he can guard against the dangers of carbon monoxide. Not a winter goes by but what frequent reports are heard of drivers overcome by this odorless, fatal gas, yet a few precautions are all that are necessary to avoid it.

First of all, it is dangerous to warm up a motor unless the garage doors are wide open. Carbon monoxide under just such conditions is often used in cases of suicide, and the motorist who prefers to remain alive needs to guard against it. Carbon monoxide also can enter an automobile as it moves along streets and highways. It is responsible, often, for the "sleepy" feeling that overcomes some motorists, and it is especially dangerous because it is undetectable. In case of doubt, the driver who suspects the presence of the gas will be wise to force ventilation in his car, even at the risk of cold blasts. A competent check-up can determine whether leaks exist that are forcing carbon monoxide into the car.

Accidents involving skids, collisions and pedestrian hazards are, of course, far more common. The answer, every time, is care, courtesy and common sense — on the part of both driver and pedestrian.

Every car owner, meanwhile, needs complete insurance protection that covers him against financial loss under practically all circumstances. This type of insurance — at remarkably low cost — is available through Employers Mutuals and R. J. White who heads the local office. The telephone number is 6700, and hundreds of motorists in this territory will attest to the efficiency and speed of Employers Mutuals service.

SANTA CLAUS IS COMING TO TOWN!

Santa Claus is coming to town! 'Tis a merry old song, and he's a merry old Santa, and it will be a merry old Christmas—for those who receive such gifts as shown above. This display represents a few worth while suggestions by the Van Zeeland Music Company, whose home office is at 106 North Oneida Street, Appleton. This year they will show the finest selection of new and used instruments in their 10-year history. A constant demand for these instruments by their hundreds of students make it possible for them to keep a complete stock of guitars and accordions on hand the year 'round. But this year they are making a special effort to please their patrons and friends—and everyone interested in music, by showing a fine array of up-to-the-minute musical merchandise. Drop in when you go Christmas shopping and find out how little it will cost to give your child an instrument and course of lessons for Christmas. Just a small down-payment will deliver a brand new accordion, guitar mandolin, etc., by Christmas—then nothing to pay until January at the Van Zeeland Music Company.

oped. So you see, I'd better be very quiet until All is known."

"Are you sure you wouldn't rather go back to quarters where you can be comfortable?"

He was silent for a minute. "Feeling humble tonight?"

"You might call it that."

"You'll find it won't last long. Why don't you take notes on the symptoms? Writers are supposed to capitalize on everything. I suppose you carry a notebook in that little jeweled affair. Go ahead, don't mind me."

Adam's teasing is gentle, but he gets things across.

"I don't take notes. It's more fun just to sit and watch people and imagine things about them. I've made up long stories that way—in a restaurant, on the el. I expect I embarrass people."

He chuckled. "Not half as much as I do. I'm no good at imagining—I have to know."

He hesitated, went on smoothly. "There's you, for instance. All during your last visit you were so busy matchmaking for Elizabeth and me," he chuckled, "that all I learned about you is that you live in Chicago with a kid sister who studies music, and that you write for a living."

Anne and Barney skipped out of the club hand in hand, singing lustily. For two or three bars Barney's rich baritone almost drowned Anne's thin, high monotone; then he leaped to a silly falsetto as he swung her about in the path of light from the door and stepped back, hand slapping, while she executed a surprisingly capable tap dance.

They were dressed alike in white slacks and white cotton jerseys in a manner to emphasize the contrast between them. I thought they were both rather pleased with the idea that they were perfect foils for each other, but I wondered how they would like sharing the limelight.

To the breast and back of each white jersey, in the appropriate anatomical position, had been applied a crimson heart pierced by an arrow. It had been Barney's idea to let the costumes speak for themselves. No other announcement had been necessary.
